FOUGHT 11 HOURS; THOUSANDS DEAD

SMALLPOX IN CAMP OF ROOSEVELT

KAPITA PLAINS, Africa, April 24.—There was much alarm in the Roosevelt hunting party here when it was discovered, just before camp was broken to-day, that two of the native servants of the party were ill with smallpox. The servants were at once isolated, the other members of the party taking all precaution against the spread of the disease.

Mr. Roosevelt started for Sir Alfred Pease's place, where he hoped to bag his first big game.

"I expect to have a bully time," were his parting words.

Before leaving, Colonel Roosevelt bade good-by to the Governor, officials and correspondents accompanying him, insisting that hereafter he intended to be a private member of society. At Nairobi Governor Mackson drastically enforced Colonel Roosevelt's wishes for privacy, issuing orders that any one attempting to follow would be forcibly turned back and deported from the country.

The Mombasa Standard published yesterday a violent attack upon F. J. Jackson, the acting governor of the protectorate, and Roosevelt for allowing only representatives of American newspapers to accompany Roosevelt special train from Mombasa to Kapiti Plains. This attack is copied to-day by the Nairobi newspapers, and it is said that the imperial government has asked an explanation from the local authorities of this exclusion of English newspapermen. An exception was made in the case of the representative of an English news agency who was allowed to accompany the special.

STATE HOUSE IN TOUR RACE

The main question about the State House to-day is: "Who will be the State House representative in the BOSTON AMERICAN'S race around the world?"

A positive decision is promised Monday or Tuesday, as the heads of the various departments in the Capitol and others engaged in various capacities about the government building are extremely anxious to select a candidate upon whom the various factions can unite in support.

The King's Daughters of Massachusetts will also have a candidate. Many of the members of this organization feel that their candidate can poll as large a vote as can the State House champion.

Remember, boys and girls, nominations have not closed. Those entering to-day have as good a chance of winning as those who have entered weeks before. The paid-in-advance subscription plan of piling up votes is by far the easiest manner of collecting votes ever evolved.

Don't forget that the rules of the race around the world permit you to select your own escort or chaperone and that the BOSTON AMERICAN will pay all the expenses of the winners and those that the winners select to go with them.

Voting coupons—one for boys and one for girls—are printed on Page 2 of this and every edition of the BOSTON AMERICAN. Clip them, have your friends clip them, then send them to the Around-the-World Editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.

LIKE POOR LITTLE CINDERELLA—How a poor, but beautiful, street chestnut seller became a real princess with more money than she could spend is told in tomorrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Constantinople in Hands of Rebels==Sultan Captured. Spies Executed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 24—Constantinople has fallen. The Sultan is a prisoner in his palace.

After a night of the bloodiest fighting between the 5,000 fanatical soldiers forming the Sultan's guard and the Young Turkish forces under the command of Cheftek Pasha, the garrison of the Yildiz Kiosk surrendered this morning.

The estimated number of killed is 2,000. Thousands were wounded. in the eleven hours of fighting.

The Young Turks' leaders are now in conference with the Sultan to determine what shall be his fate.

The garrison fought with the wildest courage, and the survivors did not surrender their barracks until they had been demolished.

The garrison was practically exterminated. The sacred palace itself was shelled by the modern guns of the rebels.

Thirty-one secret spies in the employ of Sultan Abdul Hamid, who were captured by the Young Turks, were tried by court-martial to-day and subsequently executed on the outskirts of the city.

It was reported that an attempt will be made by the fanatical Mohammedans to rescue the Sultan from the Young Turks.

There is grave danger that one of the bloodiest massacres in the world is soon to be enacted.

The entire Mohammedan population at Constantinople threatens to rise up and seek revenge for what it considers the Christian victory of the Young Turks.

As there are nearly a million fanatics in Constantinople, the Young Turks will be unable to suppress them if they begin.

The Young Turks followed up the surrender of the garrison by throwing a heavy column of their own soldiers along the palace, thereby preventing the Sultan's escape.

The deposition and possibly the execution of the Sultan is momentarily expected.

The foreign population is in no immediate danger, though two foreigners are reported killed.

Frederick Moore, an American correspondent for the New York Sun, is among the injured. He was shot while trying to take a picture of the start of the fighting. The soldiers mistook his camera for a deadly machine and fired upon him.

Heights Strewn with the Dead.

The heights surrounding the Yildiz Kiosk are strewn with the dead of the ten hours' fighting. The Techkichla and Matchka barracks in the Pera quarter, where a large part of the reactionary troops barricaded themselves, were the scene of some of the fiercest fighting, and the miracle is that more Europeans were not killed. The fighting really began last night at 7 o'clock, when the soldiers of the Daoud barracks returned from attending the Sultan on his trip to and from the Selamlik ceremony in the mosque and found that the Young Turks' soldiers, including a battalion of Salonica Chasseurs, had occupied their barracks. There was a brief engagement then, in which two were killed.

The real engagement, however, did not begin until 5 o'clock this morning, when the battle broke in all its fury. The Daoud barracks are just outside the Stamboul walls. The Sultan's soldiers were the first to open fire. After the initial fusillade the fighting ceased for a time. Both sides immediately began to bring up reinforcements, and the entire population became crazed with fear. Hundreds rushed to the embassy grounds of the various legations

NATIONAL LEAGUE GROUNDS, Philadelphia, April 24.—The second game of the home National League baseball season was played this afternoon, when the Phillies and Boston met for the last time of the present series.

Manager Bowerman as well as Manager Murray has been fuming at the many postponements of the last few days, all of which means double headers later on.

As to-day's game was called for 3 o'clock the Boston team will make a quick get-away for New York immediately after the game. The Doves are slated to meet the Giants on Monday and will leave for New York right from the grounds after their contest with the Phillies if present plans carry.

RIVALS DANCE AT "RED DEVIL"

The annual ball of the "Red Devil" Democracy of Ward 20 has furnished the political dopesters much to discuss. The surprise was the presence of ex-Congressman McNary, one of Congressman O'Connell's most bitter rivals. The ex-Congressman came early and stayed late and seemed to enjoy himself.

"Smiling Jim" Donovan was also early in evidence, and though the greetings between McNary and Donovan were not cordial, the story has been circulated that the two have patched up their differences and are working together in harmony.

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald appeared upon the scene and was given a warm greeting by Chairman Culliney.

Donovan and Fitzgerald exchanged no greetings, however, and it was noticeable that the leader of the city committee lost no time in making his departure after the ex-Mayor appeared.

HILL CALLS POLICE STATION A 'DISGRACE'

District Attorney Arthur D. Hill, in a letter to Mayor Hibbard, made public to-day, declares the police buildings of East Boston, Charlestown and South Boston "inadequate and a disgrace to the city."

"The accommodations for prisoners," he says' "are not sanitary, decent or reasonably comfortable. They are in too bad a condition for repair and should be replaced by new structures."

DIVIDE COST WITH OIL CO.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The Government entered into an agreement with the Standard Oil Company, whereby each is to bear half the expense of printing and binding the testimony taken in the St. Louis case. The cost of publication will be between $20,000 and $25,000.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, April 24.—The last game of the series between the Red Sox and Athletics was fought out to-day on a fast field and with Old Sol beaming down on the players and fans. No sign of yesterday's downpour was visible, for the strong wind, which swept over the field all day got in good work.

After a day of lounging about and taking good rest in general, the players appeared ready for a championship battle, and the way the red legs tore up the grounds in practice kept the fans cheering. Connie Mack's boys were also primed for a stiff argument, and they, too, showed that the rest was of great benefit.

The fanatics of Boston have been up against it in the weather line and have been denied several chances to see the diamond warriors struggle, but to-day, with everything pointing to a red-hot contest, the baseball populace turned out in large bunches to the Huntington avenue grounds and fought like maniacs for the choice seats in the sun-kissed bleachers.

After to-day's game the Athletics will hike for Washington, and the Red Sox will take on the Highlanders for a series of four games, beginning Monday.

LODGE TO SAVE PUTNAM'S JOB

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Whether Senator Lodge's influence with President Taft will be sufficient to retain for Herbert Putnam his position as Librarian of Congress is a question which is proving of great interest to Washingtonians.

It is reported that President Taft has requested Mr. Putnam's resignation and that Maurice Francis Egan, now Minister to Denmark, is to be recalled and given the important position. Through the influence of Senators Lodge and Crane and the Massachusetts congressional delegation, Mr. Putnam, formerly librarian of the Boston Public Library, secured the appointment in Washington.

M'CARREN PAYS UP.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Senator McCarren paid up his $450,000 indebtedness to the bankrupt firm of Ennis & Stoppani to-day. The settlement was made through the banking and brokerage house of J. S. Bache & Co.

In return for his $450,000 McCarren received 2,000 shares of the B. R. T., 2,500 shares of Amalgamated Copper and fifty shares of United States Rubber, the present market value of which is about $125,000 less than the amount paid by McCarren. That sum represents the loss which he will have to pocket.

MODJESKA ESTATE SMALL.

SANTA ANNA, Cal., April 24.—The will of the late Mme. Helena Modjeska, which has been filed for probate, leaves $4,000 to a sister in Poland and $1,000 to each of the children of Ludwig Chlid of Los Angeles, a nephew. The balance is left to her husband, Count Bozenta. The value of the estate evidently has dwindled since the will was made, as yesterday it was placed at $5,000.

CHURCH WORK FOR NEGRO.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Cardinal Gibbons and the archbishops and bishops attending the meeting of the trustees of the Catholic University have laid plans to extend the Catholic church's work among the negroes.

THE WEATHER.

BASEBALL EXTRA NO. 1

MRS. JORDAN FOUGHT FIERCELY FOR LIFE

Mrs. Honora Jordan, for whose alleged murder her husband, Chester S. Jordan, is on trial in East Cambridge, fought for her life.

This startling testimony was brought out to-day in the testimony of Medical Examiner Magrath. He swore that the woman came to her death through a fracture of the skull, strangulation and cutting of the throat.

Dr. Magrath was then asked about her finger nails. He said that their condition indicated that she had grasped her assailant tightly about the arm at the time of her death. The witness illustrated the death struggle of the woman by grasping one of his arms tightly with the hand of the other.

It was a dramatic moment in court. Jordan glanced hastily at Dr. Magrath and then his eyes shifted to the side of the room. Finally his eyes rolled back and he gazed at the ceiling. All eyes in the courtroom turned involuntarily from the witness to the big man in the steel cage. He seemed to wince under the scrutiny.

The trial adjourned at 12:30 until 9:15 Monday when Medical Examiner Magrath will be cross-examined.

Dr. Magrath, in substance, testified that he found nothing on the backstairs to indicate that a woman had fallen down there, as Jordan is alleged to claim his wife did.

The courtroom was jammed to-day and there were several hundred men and women about the jail to get a glance of the prisoner when he was taken to the trial roo to-day.

THREE POSSIBLE CAUSES OF DEATH, SAYS DR. MAGRAT

Medical Examiner Magrath resumed th stand when court opened. His direct te timony was continued under questionin by District Attorney Higgins.

Q.—Did you take the larynx from th body of Mrs. Jordan? A.—I did.

In towns where the newsdealer's charge is greater than 8 cents per Sunday the Sunday American will be sent by mail.

The difference in number of votes given for the same period of subscription inside and outside of Greater Boston is to equalize the difference in subscription price, so that the country candidates shall have the same opportunity to win as the city candidates.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS MAY BE OBTAINED AT ANY TIME BY APPLICATION AT THE BOSTON AMERICAN OFFICE OR BY WRITING TO THE AROUND-THE-WORLD EDITOR.

SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE BUSINESS STILL ACTIVE

Dorchester continues to lead the suburbs in the number of sales of property. In the city proper the Back Bay and South End are the busiest sections.

The three-story brick residence and 2817 square feet of land at No. 115 Mountfort street, near St. Mary's street, all assessed for $16,500, have been sold by Frederick S. Howard to Edward J. Thompson. The land is assessed for $5,000.

In the South End the three-story and basement brick house and 2058 square feet of land at No. 240 West Canton street, corner of Carleton street, have been sold by Mary A. Pierce to Lizzie W. Le Caine. The property is taxed for $7100, of which $3600 is on the land.

In the same section of the city Annie Lipson has sold to Rosa Rodman the two and one-half-story brick house and 830 square feet of land, taxed for $2,500, at No. 3 Medford court, near Washington street. The land is assessed for $1,000.

Buys Hospital Property.

The property owned and formerly occupied by the Hunt Asylum for Destitute Children, at No. 10 Chestnut street, near Adams street, Charlestown, has been purchased by Lizzie Gorman for occupancy. The estate consists of a large four-story brick house and a plot of 7,000 square feet of land, all assessed for $15,000, the land being rated for $7,000. The sale is the result of the change in methods of the Hunt asylum. Hereafter it will board the children it takes under its supervision.

The frame house and 1,173 square feet of land at No. 79 Russell street, near Mead street, Charlestown, have been sold by H. Louisa Johnson to Mary E. Leary. The assessed valuation is $2,500, of which $1,100 is on the land.

In Dorchester Patrick O'Hearn has sold to Julia V. McAvoy a three-family house and about 3,500 square feet of land at the corner of Draper and Robinson streets, taxed for about $7,500. At the corner of Robinson street and Robinson avenue he has sold a three-family house and 3,500 feet of land, assessed for the same, to the same purchaser.

Other Deals Recorded.

In the same suburb Mary A. Pierce has sold to Lizzie W. La Caine a frame house and 4,638 square feet of land at No. 16 Silloway street, near Mather street. The land is taxed for $1,400.

David Jameson et al. have sold to James Cowan, title passing through Arthur T. Paddock, the frame house and 3,845 square feet of land at No. 3 Greenbeys street, near Mascoma street. The estate is assessed for $5,200, of which $1,200 is on the land.

Gertrude E. Spencer has purchased from Augusta L. Guyer a frame house and 5,240 square feet of land at No. 64 Grampian way, near Endleigh street, Dorchester, the property having a total assessed valuation of [illegible]700, of which $500 is on the land.

KIDNAPPED LAD NOW WITH FUGITIVE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Broughton Brandenburg, the newspaper and magazine writer, who fled from New York February 1, the day he was to have appeared for trial on an indictment charging grand larceny, is under arrest here. When Brandenburg was found at the hotel his eight-year-old stepson, James Shepard Cabanne, III., was with him. The boy was kidnapped from the home of his grandmother in St. Louis on April 15.

Brandenburg declined to say whether he was the man who called up the boy's grandmother over the telephone and stated the boy had been kidnapped and would be returned within a week.

It was learned from a member of the Cabanne family in St. Louis that the lad doubtless was the child wanted. At the time the news of the arrest of Brandenburg was communicated to the home of the boy's grandmother, Mrs. Julia C. Cabanne, the identity of the lad had not been fully established.

Candidates for World Race and Other Travels Show Tremendous Activity.

HERE is another week ending to-day. Are you fighting to be one of the boys sent racing around the world next Summer? Are you fighting to be one of the girls sent on the tours to Europe? Are you fighting for any of the other magnificent sight-seeing trips offered by the BOSTON AMERICAN free of all expense?

Have you begun to fight yet?

REMEMBER, if your name is among the first four of the boys, or the first four of the girls, when the contest closes, you will be given a place either on one of the two teams that are to be sent racing around the world, or in the party that will tour Europe during the vacation season.

REMEMBER, that if your name is within the next twenty-five boys, or the next twenty-five girls, you will receive a magnificent prize in the form of a sight-seeing trip to New York, Washington and Niagara Falls, in special Pullman cars, travelling in the best style that money affords.

Name Own Escort.

EACH OF THE WINNERS OF THE VARIOUS PRIZES HAS THE PRIVILEGE OF NAMING HIS OR HER ESCORT OR CHAPERONE. Think of it, boys and girls of New England, by winning one of these prizes you really win two. Impress this on your friends, so that you can enlist one more active worker in behalf of your candidacy.

Now is the time to get your votes in. DON'T WAIT. Subscribe yourself. Get your friends to subscribe. Clip the voting coupons. Get your friends to clip them. By all means, GET BUSY. A good start will mean much to you in the future.

By this time you know the rules of the voting, of course.

These rules will remain exactly as they are until the end of the contest. The vote value of the subscriptions will remain the same as was announced at the outset. There will be no change.

So don't wait in the belief that there will be any change in the rules. If you want to be one of the boys or girls to go on these various vacation tours next Summer, now is the time for YOU to get busy.

Sign Your Coupons.

Remember, in sending in voting coupons, boys and girls, that each one must be properly filled out before it will be counted. The candidate's name and the voter's name must appear. This is important. Hundreds of votes are being received daily which are not counted for this reason. Your friends, in sending in the coupons, must be instructed to observe this rule closely.

Various new campaign plans for subscription and vote getting are being developed by the boy and girl candidates. House-to-house canvasses, telephone canvasses, postal card campaigns, dances, entertainments and May parties are getting quite the rage among the youthful generation interested in the various prizes offered in this contest.

As a rule, the older members of the families are behind the different arrangements, fathers and mothers in many cases showing as deep an interest as the interested pupils themselves.

The various social, business and fraternal organizations who have selected representatives in this great race have taken keen interest, and the rivalry which has developed has made this race probably one of the most talked-of questions in the New England States at this time. This is particularly true in the ranks of the various organizations which are interested in the educational advancement of the community.

Equal Chance For All.

Every walk of life is represented in the list of candidates, and under the subscription plan of piling up voting totals, all have an equal chance. The rich has no better chance of winning one of these magnificent prizes than have the poor. The son or daughter of a millionaire is on exactly the same footing in this contest with the fatherless and motherless of the community.

WORK is all that is required, and those of the contestants that will do the hardest and most consistent work will be found among the leaders. Surely, boys and girls of New England, you will not admit that any other boy or girl has a greater capacity for work, or is capable of more intelligent work, than you are.

Every effort has been put forth to make this contest in its every feature fair and impartial, and to give every boy and girl an equal chance. This idea has been carried out in the arrangements for voting. Efforts have been made to make it impossible for speculators to get coupons and save them until the last minute and then rush them in.

Efforts have been made to prevent the purchase of large numbers of papers for the coupons alone. This has been accomplished, and the result has been to place every candidate on an equal footing.

Votes Pouring In.

How the votes are pouring in at the Around the World Department! What crowds of boys and girls, accompanied by their parents in many cases, are flocking to the Around the World Department! These are days of great activity, and the candidates are keeping day and night forces of workers busy counting votes, crediting vote values of subscriptions, and keeping track of various other details entailed in keeping absolute control of the progress of the race.

The boys are slowly but surely making up the early lead gained by the girls in the first week of the voting. Before another week is out, unless the girls show renewed activity, the boys will have gone to the front.

It is the subscriptions that will count. The varying values of 600 to 5,000 votes allowed for the different terms of subscription pile up much faster than the voting coupons, and, in addition, the vote value of subscriptions may be polled any time, while the daily voting coupons have a time limit of five days, and will not be counted unless received on or before the day that the time limit expires.

Here are two good thoughts for Sunday, boys and girls: Have your friends save the coupons that are published in every edition of the BOSTON AMERICAN. Have your friends subscribe to the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN, for it means between 600 and 5,000 votes for you.

Your chance now is as good as the chance of any boy or girl. You can win one of the trips if you try. Start to-day. Remember, nominations have not closed. All you need to qualify is fifteen nomination blanks, each signed by a different adult, man or woman, and then start voting and getting subscriptions.

LETTERS FROM CANDIDATES

Around-the-World Editor:

Enclosed please find sixty-six votes, together with the eight that I sent in, making in all seventy-four votes. I am going to send in more at the end of the week.

NIBLO TAKES LARGE PARTY UP THE NILE

Fred Niblo escorted another large party "Up the Nile from Cairo to Khartoum" yesterday afternoon, starting at the Park Theatre. Mr. Niblo insists that he does not lecture, and he doesn't. He is just an accomplished guide, who, with rapid-fire comments made in the most delightful way, through the medium of beautifully colored views and the clearest of motion pictures, takes his party over vast distances and through historic places. He will repeat this lecture to-morrow night. Next Friday he takes his friends through Russia, from the Black Sea to the Siberian border, and will repeat that trip the following Sunday.

HOST OF BOYS EAGER TO SEE WIRELESS HERO

Over seventy boys, wireless operators, have already made application for tickets to the party which the BOSTON AMERICAN is going to send to the performance of "Via Wireless" at the Boston Theatre next Tuesday night, and to the conference after the show, with Jack Binns, the hero of the Republic disaster, behind the scenes.

The offer of the AMERICAN discloses the remarkable number of amateur wireless experts who handle instruments in Boston.

Every boy who has made such an application must present himself at the BOSTON AMERICAN office before noon Monday, in order to get his allotted seat. The earlier the boys get here, the better for themselves, as there is going to be a crowd, and the first comers will get the best seats.

This will be a fine opportunity for amateur wireless operators to meet the famous Jack Binns face to face, to ask him questions and to see a wireless outfit such as ocean liners carry, in actual operation. Remember, that only bona-fide amateur wireless operators are eligible to have their names on this list.

HAS OUR EARTH A SOUL?—Professor Garrett P. Serviss gives a fascinating survey of this theory in to-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN.

HEBREW BREAD TO COST MORE?

President Adolph Weisburg of the Hebrew Master Bakers' Association said today that the cost of bread among the members of his association is likely to be advanced after May 1, either by a reduction of two ounces in the weight of the "10-cent loaf" or an advance of 1 cent in price. He expects the organization will take action on the question Tuesday at No. 133 Blackstone street. Its daily output is 30,000 loaves.

Mr. Weisburg said to-day: "With the rapid advance in the price of flour something must be done if we are to stay in business. We are losing money every day."

The dealers who supply the Christian trade say that nothing in the way of an advance in price or a reduction in weight is contemplated by them.

DAUGHTER OF RICH THREAD MAN LOST

NEW YORK, April 24.—Fearing that his thirteen-year-old daughter Adele had been kidnapped and held for ransom, Arthur Boas, a millionaire thread manufacturer, living at No. 10 West Eighty-eighth street, to-day had the police send out a general alarm. Miss Boas is well-developed for her age, weighing 130 pounds. She met her mother yesterday afternoon after leaving a private school in Eighty-first street. They separated, the mother going down town to shop and the girl starting home. Mr. Boas thinks the girl was carried away either in a swift automobile or in a closed carriage.

JOSIE GILL SCORES HIT AT COLUMBIA

Burlesque audiences know a pretty girl when they see one, and last evening at the Columbia they voted Josephine Gill the prettiest of the amateurs on the bill. In fact, Miss McGillicuddy (for that is her real name) comes pretty near being the handsomest girl that ever appeared on an amateur bill at that playhouse. Helen Barry was a close second to Josie in looks, and also proved her worth as a singer.

The Red Sox mascot, Jerry McCarthy, was on hand with a song and succeeded in getting a firm grip on one of the big prizes. Tony Ree, a violinist, was another who made good.

TELLS "NEW LIFE" PLAN.

Dr. J. H. Sowerby, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canton, Ill., will begin a series of lectures in Boston, Wednesday evening, May 12, under the auspices of the New Life Society. His subject will be "The New Life Method of Healing All Manner of Disease."

THOUSANDS DIE AS CONSTANTINOPLE FALLS

and pleaded for protection. Within a few hour both sides had machine guns in position, and the actual battle was in progress.

Expect Execution of the Sultan.

The Young Turks' soldiers poured into the city from their camp at San Stefano and their other rendezvous. The Young Turks were better armed and better officered, and they swept down upon the defences of the Sultan's soldiers with irresistible fury.

One of the bloodiest engagements was fought at the Rue Grande. The reactionaries fled along the streets in an effort to reach the French Hospital for refuge. They were pursued the entire length of the fashionable thoroughfare by the Young Turks, and the street was covered with corpses. Many of the foreigners' houses were badly damaged by the fire of the soldiers.

The Russian embassy was in the direct line of the fighting and its windows were broken by stray shots.

The French, German and British embassies, all in the Pera quarter, were close to the scene of the engagement, while the American embassy was but a half mile removed.

All the embassies were surrounded by detachments of the Young Turks, who furnished magnificent protection.

The Young Turks did their deadliest execution with their machine guns, and cannon were used in the destruction of the barracks. The loss of the Young Turks was not nearly so heavy as that of the reactionaries.

It is believed that fully 15,000 Young Turks were involved in the attack.

The Young Turks smothered out the last spark of resistance late today, at least temporarily, by capturing the guardhouse in the European quarter of the city. The guardhouse was bravely defended until the Young Turks brought up a rapidfire gun and unlimbered it. A detail from the Young Turks army is already clearing away the streets. Bodies of the dead are being buried in trenches and the wounded are being cared for. Martial law has been declared, and the people have been warned to remain indoors. The ringleaders of the uprising in favor of the Sultan will be shot. A new monarch will shortly ascend the throne.

Thousands of People Flee In Panic.

The Saloniki troops attacked the Matchka and Tasch Kischla barracks, south of Yildiz Kiosk, where they met stubborn resistance.

The fighting caused a panic in the city and thousands of people are fleeing.

From the houses near Yildiz Kiosk the bodies of those who met death during the encounter near Tasch Kischla barracks are plainly visible. The streets near the firing line have been cleared and all non-combatants have been ordered to remain indoors to prevent casualties and the possibility of mob violence, thus clearing the streets for the exclusive movement of the troops.

The public has been warned away from the neighborhood of Yildiz Kiosk and the lines are impenetrable.

Battalions of Sultan Fight Desperately.

General Schefket, commanding the constitutional army, began to occupy Constantinople at dawn. Word came from the city at midnight saying that the long-expected entry had been made, but people, nevertheless, went to bed sceptical, only to be awakened in the Pera quarters by the sound of artillery and the ragged crash of rifle fire in the direction of Yildiz Kiosk.

A battalion of the Sultan's household guard, about 800 strong, occupied Tasch Kischla barracks and resisted the advance of the investing army. Expecting an attack, they were deployed outside the barracks when an officer from General Schefket demanded that they surrender, but they refused.

Within a minute after the representatives from the Constitutionalists returned the firing began. The investing forces brought into action one battery of field guns and one battery of machine guns as was judged from the sound of the firing early in the morning.

Several of the isolated guardhouses defended themselves bravely against the Salonikis. These fights in the centre of the city resulted in a considerable loss of life.

The Taxim guardhouse resisted for three hours under a heavy Hotchkiss fire. The occupants, numbering 50 men and officers, finally surrendered.

At 10 o'clock the firing had almost ceased, but at long intervals the field guns could be heard, together with the scattering fire of artillery.

Tranquillity was restored in Constantinople by noon, when the last recalcitrants surrendered and the firing ceased.

Only a small part of the constitutional troops were engaged in the attack on the barracks. The Young Turks are protecting all hotels and banks in the Pera quarter, where Americans and Europeans are gathered.

Steadily Return the Rifle Fire.

From the head of the Grand Rue de Pera, the main street, one was able to get a partial view of the operations. The brilliant sunlight now and then flashed on the field, showing a landscape of gun rims or a succession of machine guns slowly firing away at segments of the thin line of infantry, which could be seen with the aid of a glass.

At the Tasch Kischla barracks the Sultan's men were returning the rifle fire steadily. Presently the loyal troops occupied the military school near by and fired on the advance, while a considerable reinforcement from the Yildiz barracks joined the troops at Tasch Kischla, where the Saloniki Chasseurs accused of betraying the constitutional cause were defending themselves.

In spite of the surrender of the Yildiz garrison, where the white flag has been hoisted, another detachment of the Sultan's body guard, quartered in the Tophaneh barracks, continued a stubborn resistance for some time. They barricaded themselves in a mosque, but finally were overpowered.

The grounds of the Belgian legation were occupied by a detachment of the local garrison, who took up a position there to oppose the advance of the constitutionalists. In the subsequent skirmish the legation was riddled with bullets. None of the inmates, however, was hurt. The constitutionalists finally cleared the grounds.

The fire was concentrated on the barracks of the chasseurs, and they were shown little quarter. They put up a splendid fight and many of them were killed. By 10:30 in the morning the Tasch Kischla barracks were half destroyed by the shell fire, whereupon the fire generally slackened. Yildiz Kiosk also had been subjected to a shell fire.

Schefket Pasha issued orders to shoot down any soldiers of the Constantinople garrison seen carrying arms, whether using them or not. He declared also that all unarmed soldiers would be treated as non-combatants.

During the encounter a rain of bullets fell in the crowd observing the great panorama in the Grand Rue de Pera and wounded four natives. With this warning of danger the correspondents and others hastily withdrew.

Americans Escape Artillery Fire.

The crowds in the streets were singularly quiet in view of the conditions. While shops were not open, horse cars were running outside the fire zone. A tourist party of fifty or sixty Americans were at an early breakfast when the first boom of artillery shook the windows of the Pera Palace Hotel. There was a scurry to the windows, but as the tourists were unable to see anything from their position they merely abandoned their coffee and left the city at 7 o'clock.

One report was that the Sultan had escaped the Young Turks after his palace was captured, and fled to a German guardship in the harbor, but this was not generally credited.

Among the Americans in Constantinople are Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, retired, and Mrs. Chester; Arthur Chester of New York, the admiral's son, and Mrs. Arthur Chester; Frank Carpenter and Miss Carpenter, Miss Mary Lee, daughter of Robert S. Lee, and Junius Morgan of New York, nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan.

Ambassador Leishman sent a party of sixty American tourists to a steamship about to leave Constantinople. The tourists were placed under the protection of a guard of soldiers supplied to the Ambassador by the local commandant.

The Ambassador then visited the leading hotels where Americans are stopping to reasure them that their part of the city was secure, and that they were in no danger. Rear Admiral Chester expressed the opinion that General Schefket had handled his forces in an admirable manner.

PANIC AS INVADERS CAME UPON CITY

The following dispatch received to-day from Constantinople was sent just before the beginning of the battle which resulted in the fall of the Sultan's capital:

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 24.—While the favored troops of the Constantinople garrison were giving homage to the Sultan on Yildiz Hill, there was a forward movement of the Constitutional forces on that side of Pera to within two and a half miles of the Yildiz Kiosk. Cavalry went out to reconnoitre and squads were sent to picket the bridges across the Sweetwaters.

A party of fifty American tourists, just arrived, who were driving in carriages in that direction, were turned back by the horsemen. Infantry was then observed advancing and rumors spread throughout the city that the army was about to enter the capital and fighting was inevitable.

The Constitutionalists practically control the government.

General Mahmoud Schefket, who, in a telegram to the Grand Vizier to-day, styled himself "Commander-in-Chief of the Army of Investment and of the Ottoman Fleet," is almost supreme in authority. In his communication, a copy of which was also sent to the Sultan, the Porte and the various embassies, and was published to-night as a proclamation, General Schefket said:

"Owing to recent corruption among the Imperial Guard, the power of the government in the capital was annihilated. In order to restore and consolidate the authority of the government, the Second and Third Army Corps dispatched troops to Constantinople and placed me at the head of these forces, and also of the navy. Pardon will be granted to repentant soldiers who submit, but those continuing to rebel will be punished without mercy.

High Position No Safeguard.

"Certain guilty individuals, apprehending chastisement, have spread reports that the army of investment purposes to dethrone the Sultan. I absolutely deny this allegation. If, during the operations, agitators attempt to provoke troubles, they will be held responsible, no matter how high their position."

John G. A. Leishman, the American ambassador, has appealed directly to the Sheik-ul-Islam, head of the Mohammadan Church, to use his influence for the protection of Americans. The Sheik-ul-Islam, it is understood, has acted promptly in the direction of stopping attacks on Christians.

BOSTON CONSULATE EXPECTED FALL OF TURKEY'S CAPITAL

At the office of the Turkish consul, No. 151 Milk street, the news of the fall of Constantinople had been expected, and was no surprise to the officials. Frank G. Macomber, the consul, is in New York and will not return till next Tuesday. His secretary, James Spaine, expressed surprise when told that the Sultan probably had been taken prisoner.

Mr. Macomber is an insurance man, and carries on his business in connection with the consulate.

AMERICA MAY SEND STRAUS TO CONSTANTINOPLE

WASHINGTON, April 24.—It is probable that in case it becomes necessary to send a special commissioner to Turkey to look after American interests, Oscar S. Straus will be the man selected for the post. He is familiar with conditions there, having been minister to Turkey several years ago. The rumor is strong that Mr. Straus soon will be named to an important diplomatic post.

CONSTANTINOPLE, THE KEY TO ASIA

Napoleon said that Constantinople, or Stamboul, as the Turks themselves call it, was the key to Asia. Like ancient Rome it is a city set on seven hills.

Roughly speaking, as one looks at the map, the topography of this ancient city has some points of resemblance to Boston. For example, the ancient Byzantine city is on a point of land facing east, just as old Boston is on a peninsula, although its direction is more northerly. The Golden Horn is very much in the same relative position as the Charles River. The Horn separates the ancient city from Pera, where the fighting began, the modern part of the city. Pera's position relatively is that of Charlestown, while Galata, another part of the city, lies just to the south.

The Sultan's palace of Yildiz Kiosk lies several miles to the northeast, much like one of the fine estates on the north shore, save that Abdul Hamid's retreat is, of course, vast in extent and is a walled fortress.

Seat of Government.

The Sublime Porte, which is a term of great confusion to the western mind, means the seat of government much as in London one speaks of Dowing street, or in this country of the State Department.

This is located in the old part of the city, much like the old State House in downtown Boston, and it gets its name from the great portal or gate through which entrance to the various buildings and compound is made.

Constantinople is peculiar in that it is the only city in the world which rests on two continents, parts of it being in Europe, parts in Asia. The several parts of the city are divided by water ways, as the Horn between Stamboul and Pera and Galata, while the Bosphorus lies to the east of all this group, Stamboul, the Horn, Pera and Galata. Asia is on the eastern side of the Bosphorus, with that part of Constantinople called Skutari over there. The Sea of Marmora lies to the south.

ARMENIAN VILLAGE OF KESSAB BURNED; MANY MASSACRED

BEIRUT, Asiatic Turkey, April 24.—The Armenian village of Kessab, near Alexandretta, has been burned and many persons killed.

The women and children are [illegible] to the mountains, exposed to hunger and mob violence. Help is urgently needed everywhere on the coast. The situation at Bilan is most critical.

No news has been received from Hadjin, where five American women missionaries were reported in danger.

AMERICANS ARE ORDERED OUT OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

Cook's Tourist Agency received a cable this morning from their London office, informing the Boston manager that the American tourist party that had reached Constantinople in the course of the Cook itinerary and was scheduled to remain there until next Tuesday, had been ordered to leave Constantinople to-day and go to Athens.

Such a change in the tour schedule plainly indicates, the Boston office says, that the fighting at Constantinople makes it unsafe for the Americans to remain there.

There are some fifty people in the Cook party, which left Constantinople to-day for Athens, but, so far as the Boston office knows, there are none from Boston or vicinity.

YUKON FAIR TO BE OPEN SUNDAYS

SEATTLE, Wash., April 24.—The Alaskan-Yukon-Pacific directors yesterday voted to open the world's fair gates on Sundays from 1 p. m. until midnight. Under the law amusement enterprises must be conducted quietly on Sunday. The government building will not be open, but it is believed the State buildings will be.

WOLLASTON GIRL KILLED BY TRAIN

Fannie Lenocan, employed at No. 8 Berlin street, Wollaston, was struck and instantly killed by a train on the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad directly in front of the Wollaston station.

BORN WITH A GOLDEN SPOON— The most-talked-of baby in Europe will be described in the SUNDAY AMERICAN to-morrow.

HOPE OF PEACE IN WARSHIPS OF THE POWERS

The armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina, which left Guantanamo, Cuba, yesterday, under rush orders for Turkish waters, are among the swiftest and most formidable cruisers in the American navy. The distance the ships have to run is about 5,700 miles. They are expected to reach Alexandretta by May 8 at the latest. Both ships carry a large force of marines.

A combination will be formed between the forces of the United States, Great Britain and Russia to render aid and protection to the missionaries and their families and other foreign residents who are within the zone of the massacres now being perpetrated.

All to Save Lives.

President Taft has practically invited the co-operation of all the Christian powers in protecting the lives and property of the Christian people now in Turkey.

The situation has now grown so acute that the simple issue will be speedily placed before the world whether civilization shall expel barbarism from Europe or Turkish barbarity destroy civilization.

Every province converging on Constantinople is in revolt against the [illegible] "Sick Man of Europe" [illegible] Armenia, Macedonia and Alb[illegible] ing their lists of murdered vict[illegible] ish atrocity swollen by thousands.

"The Turk must be driven from Europe" will be the cry that rings throughout the world before many days, it may be before many hours, if some power does not speedily palsy the Mussulman's bloodstained arm. It is impossible that the Christian nations of the world can stand idle much longer and allow the slaughter of innocent human beings and the pillage of property to proceed unchecked at the pleasure of the Turk.

Aroused by Gladstone.

Thirty years ago the valley of Bulgaria ran red with rivulets of blood, but the nations lifted not a finger until Gladstone's fiery eloquence stirred the world with horror. Soon the Sultan saw the Dardanelles filled with battleships with guns trained upon his city and the Bulgarian atrocities were ended.

The situation to-day in Turkey is worse than it was in 1879. There is no Gladstone to stir humanity to action and the wild excesses of the slayers of the Christian people are even worse than the shrieks for aid from bleeding Bulgaria, which sent a thrill of horror around the world.

The "Young Turk," who, filled with the spirit of revolution, stalking toward Constantinople, is far more bloodthirsty than was his father in '79. The fathers had, at least, the chastening fanaticism of Mohammedan beliefs and customs to put some check upon their barbaric horde. The "Young Turk" revolutionist of to-day ignores the traditional habits and religious mandates of his race. He removes the "fez" when he feels like it, drinks wine, eats pork, and all of these are anathema in the eyes of the true Mohammedan.

World's Best Fighters.

Despite all popular ideas to the contrary, Turkey is a powerful nation. Whatever his failings, the Turk is one of the best fighters in the world. The Turkish army, organized on the territorial system, is a great fighting machine. Full proof of this was given in the campaign before Plevna in the 70's and the short and decisive war with Greece a few years ago.

An able student of the situation, writing to the New York American, says:

"The condition in Turkey has obtained too long. The world is kept in a turmoil by the presence of this relic of the time when torture and slaughter and slavery were commonplaces of government and a difference in religion was a license for every atrocity. Turkey in Europe is an affront to humanity and an obstacle to the advance of enlightenment. Over and over again it has been demonstrated that she will not regard her own promises that men are not to be murdered nor women made the spoil of raiders because they are Christians. Too long have the claims of humanity been set aside for the jealousies of European politics."

PLEASE WILL YOUR BRAINS TO SCIENCE

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—D. W. W. Keen, the noted specialist, who presided at the sessions of the 166th annual convention of the American Philosophical Society, startled his hearers when he suggested that members bequeath their brains to the society for scientific purposes.

Dr. Keen's suggestion caused an interesting debate, but no member showed a disposition to accept it in his own case.

Professor Burt G. Wilder of Cornell, exhibited the brains of two educated white men and two obscure negroes and pointed out the similarity in the formation of each. He also compared the brain of a negro janitor in his collection with that of a New York politician and commented favorably on that of the negro.

Dr. Edward Anthony Spitzka, another authority on the brain, pointed out that the average brain of a negro is smaller than that of the average white man's.

COUNT SZECHENYI SAILS.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Count Laszlo Szechenyi sailed to-day for Europe on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria. The Countess was the only one to see him off. She will sail for Europe next week. The Count carried a Pomeranian dog, and as he stood on the deck, leaning over the rail, he waved its starboard paw at his wife.

"Doctor, What Is That?"

"Bad Case of Eczema"—"Worst I Ever Saw."

With this discouraging reply ringing in his ears, Mr. Bailey, who is a well known pump manufacturer in Champaign, Ill., sought a remedy. This is his full story, given in a recent letter:

"When I asked my doctor what that eruption was under my right ear he said it was a bad case of eczema and it would take a long time to cure it. Another doctor said it was about the worst case he ever saw. I took their medicine for 16 months, but the eruption would not heal. It was dreadful sore, and caused me great agony. One day I asked the druggist if he had anything he could recommend. He said that if anything could cure me it was Hood's Sarsaparilla; advised me to buy three bottles, watch the results, and be governed accordingly. There was such a decided improvement in a short time I decided to take one more bottle, which effected a complete cure. I am glad to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." C. C. BAILEY, Champaign, Illinois.

It is just what you need as a Spring Medicine for impure blood, eczema, rheumatism, or that tired feeling.

MRS. JORDAN WAS STABBED WHILE ALIVE

Q.—Is this it, doctor? A.—Yes.

The larynx was exhibited in a small bottle.

Q.—Did you find any cut in the larynx? A.—Yes, there are some five incisions.

Dr. Magrath pointed out to the jury the five cuts in the larynx.

Q.—In what condition did you find the mucous membrane? A.—Above the vocal cords there were dark red patches.

Q.—Upon your examination of the body did you arrive at an opinion as to the causes of the death of Honora Jordan? A.—Yes.

Q.—What conclusion did you reach? A.—That her death was the result of a combination of injuries.

Q.—What combination? A.—Compound fracture of the skull, asphyxiation by strangulation and possibly hemorrhage by the cutting of the throat.

In describing the condition of Mrs. Jordan's face as he saw it Dr. McGrath said:

Teeth Set in Tongue.

"The lips were parted and the tongue protruded four-tenths of an inch beyond the teeth. The teeth were set upon the tongue to the depth of at least one-tenth of an inch and the marks were plainly visible on the tongue after the teeth had been pried away."

Q.—Did you form any opinion of the bruises which you found on the upper arm? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was your opinion that these bruises were consistent with the grasping of the upper arm. A.—Yes, I would say that they might have been so produced.

Q.—I now call your attention, Doctor, to the condition of the finger nails of Mrs. Jordan. Have you an opinion as to how that was caused? A.—Yes, by a grasping movement on the part of the person who hand that was.

Dr. Magrath illustrated by grasping his own arm with one hand and gripping it tightly.

Q.—Did you hear the alleged statement of the defendant that he hit his wife and that she fell backward down the stairs? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, Doctor did you make an examination of the back stairs at the premises of No. 509A Medford street? A.—I did.

Q.—What did you find? A.—I found a flight of fifteen steps. I examined the edges of these steps and found evidence of chipping at the edges. The stairs were dusty. I found nothing else of note about the steps or the wall.

Q.—What do you mean by saying you found nothing else of note? A.—I mean that I found no stains on the stairs or on the walls.

Q.—Did you find any evidence in your examination of the back stairs that a person had been knocked down those stairs or had fallen down the stairs?

All three of Jordan's attorneys jumped and cried: "I object."

Judge Stevens said that he thought the witness might describe what he saw.

Q.—Upon what evidence as revealed to you by the autopsy have you determined that one of the causes of death was strangulation? A.—By the combination of conditions as revealed in the eyes, larynx and tongue.

Q.—And as regards the condition of the brain? A.—The brain was congested.

Spot On Side of Neck.

Q.—So that taken all together, the condition of the eyes, the larynx, the tongue and the brain, in your opinion, is that strangulation was one of the causes of death? A.—Yes, absolutely so.

Q.—Where was the strangulation? A.—It came from pressure about the neck.

Q.—How was this pressure applied? A.—I found no mark on the skin of the neck with the exception of one spot on the left side.

Q.—Is the absence of marks upon the neck inconsistent with your theory of strangulation? A.—It is not inconsistent.

Q.—Now about the head? How were those wounds which you have described, in your belief, inflicted? A.—The wounds on the scalp were made by the impact of a weapon having a sharp corner. A weapon with some kind of an edge, not a cutting edge, but an edge that would crush with a force sufficient to cause the depressed fracture in the skull.

Q.—Did they cause death? A.—The force necessary to produce those wounds would have been sufficient to cause death from concussion.

Q.—And by concussion you mean shock? A.—Yes.

Q.—Those blows would cause unconsciousness, would they not? A.—Surely, any one of them would.

Q.—Were these blows inflicted before or after death? A.—They were inflicted before death.

At this point five more exhibits, portions of the body of Mrs. Jordan in glass jars, were handed to Dr. Magrath. One of the exhibits was the piece of skin from the arm of the dead woman upon which had been tattooed the word, "McKinley," the name of the ship upon which Mrs. Jordan was born.

As the exhibits were placed in front of Dr. Magrath Jordan gave one hasty glance in their direction and gazed toward the right of the court room.

Q.—With reference to the time of Mrs. Jordan's death, when was the cut in the front of the neck made? A.—I formed the opinion that it may have been made immediately before death, or if after death, within half an hour.

Among the spectators at the trial to-day was Assistant District Attorney Michael J. Dwyer of Suffolk County. It was said today that Jordan's two sisters, Mrs. Jesse L. Livermore and Mrs. Kendall, and his mother may not attend the trial. They have been advised by physicians to keep away.

Stabbed During Life.

Q.—Now, doctor, it can readily be determined in the examination of a body whether cuts have been inflicted before or after death? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, calling your attention to this exhibit of the skin from the throat and chest, will you tell us whehter that cut was made in life or after death? A.—It was made during life.

Q.—This is the piece of skin you cut from the upper left arm? (Handing the doctor another exhibit.) A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you made microscopic examination of this? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did this examination disclose? A.—It disclosed discolorations.

Q.—What in your opinion did these result from? A.—From pressure applied at this point.

Q.—And was this pressure applied before or after death? A.—It was applied before death.

May Have Died Quickly.

Q.—How long does it take to strangle a person, or what is the average time necessary? A.—From three to six minutes.

Q.—Assuming that there was sufficient pressure on the neck on the pneumo-gastric nerve, would it make any difference in the length of time? A.—Yes, death might occur instantly.

Q.—From your autopsy, are you able to state whether there was pressure on the pneumo-gastric nerve? A.—There may have been. That nerve contains fibres which control the action of the heart.

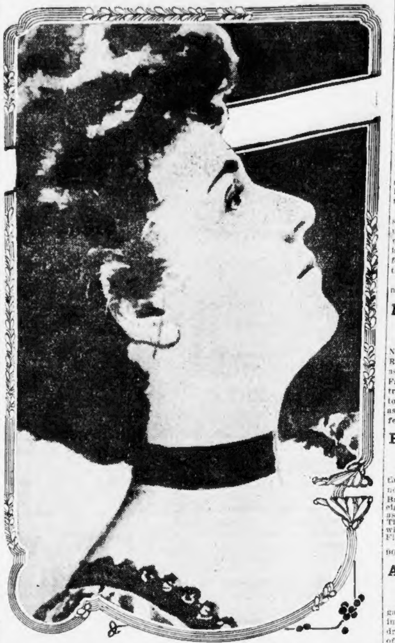
At ten minutes of 12 the direct examination of Dr. Magrath was ended. District Attorney Higgins offered the exhibits of the different parts of the body to the defence for examination by their experts.

General Bartlett announced that he had been informed that his experts would need four days to make this examination, and therefore could not proceed with the cross-examination of Dr. Magrath. Judge Stevens said that the trial would proceed and that the Court would announce on Monday whether they would give the defence the added time they asked for.

Toward the end of his examination Dr. Magrath was handed a board about ten by twelve inches in dimensions. He said that he found it in the Jordan pantry. On it were three flatirons, he said. Under the middle iron were two brownish spots and a hair, according to the witness.

HOW THE SOUTH POLE LOOKS—If you want to know, look in to-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN.

MISS ISELIN TO WED A COUNT—BUT FATHER DOESN'T LIKE MATCH



Miss Nora Iselin, American society girl and yachtswoman, who is to marry an Austrian nobleman.

NEW YORK, April 24.—C. Oliver Iselin, the banker and yachtsman, announces the engagement of his daughter Nora to Count Ferdinand Colloredo-Mansfield, an Austrian nobleman and diplomat, now a member of his country's legation at Rome.

The marriage will take place at the Iselin home early in May.

Miss Iselin is the eldest daughter of the multi-millionaire banker. She named the famous cup defender Reliance, which her father's syndicate built and owned; she was the "girl at the wheel" during the latter part of the easy victory over Lipton's Shamrock II. and a year ago she created a stir throughout England by appearing in court in the most lavish and tightest gown ever worn by an American society girl there.

The announcement of her engagement to Count Mansfield came as a surprise, for though she has been courted assiduously by Europeans since her debut in 1901, it was believed, even among her friends, that an American would be her choice.

In this connection her engagement to young Ogden Mills has been frequently announced and as frequently denied.

The nobleman she is to wed is the second son of Count Francis Colloredo-Mansfield, who married the sister of Baron Von Achrenthal, the present Austrian minister of Foreign Affairs. Miss Iselin is the daughter of her father's first wife, Frances Garner.

Mr. Iselin, it is understood, is opposed to the match.

SKULL FRACTURED IN TWO PLACES, SAYS DR. T. M. DURRELL

Dr. Thomas M. Durrell, for twenty-three years medical examiner for northern Middlesex, was the next witness called.

Q.—Are you able, doctor, from the result of the autopsy, to form an opinion as to the cause of the death of Mrs. Jordan? A. I am.

Q.—What was the cause of death? A.—Multiple injuries to the head, strangulation and extensive cutting of the throat.

Q.—As to the head, doctor, describe the injuries. A.—There were four wounds on the head, two of them producing fractures of the skull. Those two wounds would have produced immediate unconsciousness and might have caused death.

Q.—As to strangulation? A.—The eyes were bloodshot, the whites greatly congested, the tongue protruded about a half an inch. There were hemorrhages below the tongue.

Q.—As to the throat? A.—There was a gash across the front of the throat and a gash in the back of the neck. The gash across the front of the throat severed the windpipe. This gash was given during life. The wound in the back of the neck was inflicted after death.

Dr. William B. Swan of Cambridge corroborated the testimony given by Dr. Magrath and Dr. Durrell.

Court adjourned at 12:30 until 9:15 Monday morning. Before the adjournment Attorney Harvey Pratt, for the defence, asked the court for four days in which to examine the exhibits introduced by the government. District Attorney Higgins opposed the motion, and the court ruled that the examination should commence at once, and that the experts for the defence must be prepared when court opens Monday.

Medical Examiner Magrath will represent the government at the examination, which will take place at the Harvard Medical School.

AMATEUR ACTORS IN PRIZE CONTEST

At the Grand Opera House last night the third prize winners in the "bookless" amateur contests during the past season competed for two cash prizes. It was a close contest between ten of the best amateur acts. First prize went to little Sam Blackman and his violin. Second money went to dainty Miss Alice Bennett from Saugus. Only two prizes were awarded, but the winners will compete Friday, and then on the following Friday till the best amateur in the city is discovered.

$500 FIRE ON WAGON RUINS 144 CHAIRS

"Say, mister, is this a torchlight procession?" was the question from a boy which led James Kennedy to discover his load of 144 excelsior-stuffed chairs on fire, while he was driving through Pleasant street, Malden, to-day. Kennedy released his horses and rang a fire alarm. The loss was $500.

HANG GOVERNOR IN EFFIGY FOR PARDONS

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 24.—There is intense feeling here over the action of Governor Wilson in pardoning two men who were serving prison sentences for the death of Governor Goebel. Governor Wilson was hanged in effigy to-day.

SCHOOLBOYS TO AID IN BOSTON 1915 PLAN

Even the pupils of the Boston schools are becoming interested in the "Boston—1915" movement, as the executive committee learned when two of the students of the Roxbury High School brought to headquarters a voluntary offer of support from the boys and girls of that school.

The school representatives were James A. Walsh of No. 12 Mayfair street and Lester O. Woodruff of No. 8 Rill street. They carried as their credentials a letter setting forth their mission to be "to find out more clearly what part the schools are to take in the movement."

A conference followed and as a result Richard A. Hall, president of the Mutual Improvement Association, will inaugurate the "Boston—1915" movement in the schools at a meeting at the Roxbury High School next Monday.

TAKEN AT GUN POINT IN BREAK

A man who gave his name as William Smith of Boston, was captured under exciting circumstances after breaking into the store of H. M. Buck, North Wilmington, early to-day and sentenced to the Reformatory for two months upon arraignment in the Woburn District Court.

Since the postoffice safe was blown up storekeepers have kept a sharp lookout. Radney Buck, watching his father's store, late last night saw two suspicious strangers. He went home for his brother Forest and sent a messenger to Chief of Police Swain.

The boys then returned to the store armed with shot guns and hearing noises inside one discharged his gun to frighten the burglar and obtain assistance.

A crowd of citizens surrounded the store, occasionally discharging firearms, until Chief Swain arrived. With a revolver in one hand and a police lantern in the other, he searched the store and found a man attempting to hide among the merchandise in the cellar.

The companion of the arrested man was not found.

M. C. BARNARD & CO., BROKERS, ASSIGN

M. C. Barnard & Co., stock brokers, of No. 35 Congress street, assigned to F. G. Roberts to-day. Their liabilities are given as $35,000 and their assets as $75,000. Failure of customers to take up buy-contracts in Southwestern Development is said to be the cause of the assignment, but the assignee expects the firm to recover in a few days.

PRICE OF BREAD HIGHER IN LYNN

The first rise in the price of bread since the Patten wheat corner started was announced to-day by the Co-operative Jewish Bakery in Lynn. The price will go from eight to nine cents for a 2½-pound loaf, as the result of a vote of the stockholders. The independent Jewish bakers say they will stick to the old price for the present. Flour is fifty cents higher than last week.

The co-operative bakery turns out about 900 loaves a day.

ALDRICH STUDYING TARIFF DRAWBACK

WASHINGTON, April 24.—What is regarded by Senator Aldrich as the most important feature of the tariff bill is the drawback section. It is under this section of the present tariff that the Sandard Oil Company, it is said, has undue advantage over the independent oil companies by reason of the fact that the Standard is a large exporter and gets a drawback on its tin.

The Finance Committee, it was said to-day, will make several important changes in the drawback provision of the Payne bill, which, it is believed, will effectually protect the revenues of the Government and put a crimp in some of the trusts that are large importers and exporters.

HELD AS DRINK PEDLER.

LYNN, April 24.—Emil C. Duprez, a shoeworker, was sentenced by Judge Lummus to-day to four months in the House of Correction and a $50 fine for alleged peddling of whiskey in the street. He appealed.

GOOD FUNERAL TO-MORROW

The funeral of J. Frank Good, a well-known citizen of Roxbury, will be held from his late residence at No. 22 Bartlett street to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be conducted at the house at 1:30. Monday morning at 8 o'clock there will be a high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's Church, Circuit street, Roxbury.

A. O. H. MASS MEETING.

A mass meeting of members of the A. O. H. of the Roxbury district will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Odd Fellows' Hall, No. 8 Warren street, to take action on the erection of a building for the local divisions of the order. State President John J. Rogers of Worcester will be the principal speaker.

IDA TARBELL VOICES SEX'S TARIFF WOES

NEW YORK, April 24.—Ida M. Tarbell in a speech at the dinner of the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor, took a woman's view of the Payne tariff rates. She showed how, under its provisions, the ordinary comforts of dress will be denied to the woman of ordinary circumstances. She showed how the cost of shoes, stockings, hats, cotton and woolen goods will be marked up as a result of the tariff.

"I am not talking of the woman who goes abroad and comes back with something contraband up her sleeve," began Miss Tarbell, earnestly.

"I am talking of the woman who never goes abroad and who practically never buys an imported article. She is the average American woman who, as a bread winner or the head of a family, deals with one of the most difficult economic problems in this country—that of keeping herself and those in her care in health and decency on an income between $500 to $1,100 per year.

"What has the Payne bill done for the ten or twelve million mothers bringing up families on an income of a few hundred dollars a year? It has done some curious things. Take the matter of clothing. To begin at the head, it makes hats and all the fearful and wonderful things that go on them dearer.

"I shall not complain of this. I rather think that we deserve to be penalized for wearing the things we do.

"It doesn't matter so much whether the head is covered or not, but it is of vital importance that we should be shod. We must have hose to begin with. Our stockings have been steadily decreasing in quality and increasing in price.

"Mr. Payne has been compensated for what he has put on hosiery by what he has taken off shoes or at least tried to take off. The increase in the cost of shoes in the last few years has been one of the tragedies of my working women.

"But how about one other article of footwear almost as important to women and children as the shoe itself—the rubber overshoe. In the last three or four years the price of the storm rubber has gone up from fifty to seventy cents.

"Mr. Payne has done nothing to clip the wings off the Rubber Shoe Trust, for the duty still remains."

A Physician Cures His Wife of Consumption

Gentlemen:

"My wife was down with Consumption when I ordered a bottle of Aicsol (Lloyd). She was very weak from night sweats, cough and in a feverish condition. I noticed a change for the better after ten days' treatment and from that time on up to three months when the cure was completed. Aicsol (Lloyd) kills the Tubercle Bacillus in the blood and tissue and it is the only remedy so far discovered that will do this. It is a preventative as well as a cure. It should be used by those who are run down or those who fear the approach of Consumption. It can be truthfully said that Aicsol (Lloyd) for the cure and prevention of Consumption is the most wonderful compound of the present age."

DR. W. H. KNIGHT, Swampscott, Mass.

Hundreds of letters similar to the above, from physicians and cured patients, are on file at our office.

So confident are we that Aicsol (Lloyd) actually will restore you to perfect health, and that you will feel its beneficial effects within a very short time after beginning the treatment, that we will gladly send a full month's treatment to any sufferer who will send name and address to us.

We make no conditions except that you take the treatment we send you, according to directions. Should the results be such as to make you absolutely sure that a continuance of the treatment will cure you, you are to remit us $5.00 for the treatment sent you. If after taking the treatment you are not satisfied with the results, no charge whatever will be made you for the treatment sent.

On December 15, 1908, the London Society of Science, Letters and Art, of London, England, which was established in 1881 for the purpose of determining the highest scientific and literary achievements each year, awarded a diploma of merit to Judd Q. Lloyd in recognition of his valuable services to mankind in discovering "Aicsol," the only successful treatment for consumption, and was elected an honorary member of that well-known society. Only one such diploma is issued each year in any one country.

Aicsol (Lloyd) is a perfectly palatable preparation. You take absolutely no risk whatever, for Aicsol (Lloyd) must be entirely satisfactory to you before you pay us. The burden of the proof is entirely on us. What we have done for others we can do for you. Send your name and address to-day and we will send you a full month's treatment with full directions. We consider it no more than fair that you should help pay express charges by sending us 20c, silver or stamps, and be sure to state your nearest express office. Address Restorall Chemical Co., 593 De Balliviere Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

MRS. YERKES IN POVERTY; RIVAL IS RICH

NEW YORK, April 24.—With eviction from her Fifth avenue palace threatened, her lawyers shaking their heads dubiously and hinting at complete bankruptcy, Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes, widow of the Chicago-New York-London traction magnate, is a nervous wreck over her hurrying series of ill-fortunes.

Just around the corner in the white marble mansion given to her by Mr. Yerkes lives in regal splendor Miss Emilie Grigsby, the gloriously beautiful, golden-haired beauty who was known during his life-time as Mr. Yerke's ward.

The widow looks out on the strong probability of poverty, the ward is said to be securely fixed in the possession of this $500,000 home, and from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 besides.

Friends of the widow have hinted that she might successfully attack the titles of her late husband's gifts to Miss Grisby, but her lawyers have given no encouragement. They say that Miss Grigsby's titles are as impregnable as Gibraltar itself.

Yerkes was supposed to have left about $20,000,000 to his widow and his will provided for a vast $1,000,000 hospital and gave his art treasures worth hundreds of thousands to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

These treasures now are the subject of several court actions, hungry creditors clamoring for them and the Yerkes palace by way of satisfaction.

Miss Grigsby's mother was well known to the men about town in Cincinnati and was familiarly addressed as "Sue."

Miss Emilie's great fortune is said to have been carefully saved by her astute mother from the enormous gifts showered on her by Yerkes. He was equally generous to his wife, but she always having had everything she wanted gave no thought of the morrow, believing that Mr. Yerkes would provide for her in his will. He certainly meant to do this, but the present tangled state of the Yerkes estate affairs shows how completely he failed.

$5,000,000 DAMS ON CONNECTICUT RIVER

LITTLETON, N. H., April 24.—Chicago men are promoting a project involving the construction of dams on the Connecticut river, by which more than 5,000 horse power would be generated, at an expenditure of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. C. E. Everett of Chicago has been here investigating with Attorney Carl A. Ross of Chicago, A. Danville, of Chicago, an engineer, and G. H. Gilbert of New York, who is engineer for the New York Central railroad. The plan contemplates the erection of three dams. Three separate power plants would be established, one at lower Waterford, one at Monroe and one at North Littleton.

CLOSE VOTE FOR D. A. R. SECRETARY

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The last day's session of the convention of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution met to-day. The vote for corresponding secretary-general, the candidates being Mrs. Lyman B. Swormstadt, administration, and Mrs. Eleanor T. Thorn, insurgent, is so close that it is possible another ballot may be necessary. Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, the new president-general said:

"I intend to live in Washington and devote all my time and energy to the work of the D. A. R. By the time of the next convention we hope to have more than 100,000 members."

MAYOR PLANTS TREE TO MARK ARBOR DAY

WHEAT PRICE DROPS.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Favorable weather at home and abroad, larger receipts in the Northwest and a rather demoralized Liverpool market caused a decline of 3¼ cents in July wheat to-day. Buying and profit-taking by shorts later caused a rally of about a cent.

Good Things to Eat

Watermelons and cantaloupes came into the market this week. As they are scarce, the price is correspondingly high, $1 apiece.

Fresh killed native broilers are unusually high, 50 to 55 cents a pound; fresh killed native chickens have advanced to 38 cents.

The price of lobster is the lowest reached yet. They are selling from 20 to 25 cents a pound.

Mackerel is so scarce that only a few of the dealers have it in stock, at $1 apiece. Oysters will be out of the market next week, for when the "r" drops out of the month oysters are not considered edible.

Southern potatoes are selling for 25 cents a pound. The first shipment of Jersey asparagus is in the market for 50 to 60 cents a bunch.

Mushrooms are down again in price, some fine ones retailing for 75 cents a pound. For some reason strawberries are scarce this week and have gone up to 40 cents a basket.

Cranberries are almost out of the market. There is an abundance of spinach, and it is retailing for 30 cents a peck. Grape fruit is a trifle cheaper, $1 to $2 a dozen. There has been no drop in the price of grapes, the cheapest quality bringing 40 cents a pound, while Black Hamburgs are selling for $1 a pound. Apples are very scarce and high. Lettuce is plentiful, also cabbage, which brings 3 cents a pound.

Florida oranges are selling for 60 cents a dozen; those from California may be purchased from 30 to 50 cents a dozen. Pineapples are unusually fine and remarkably cheap, 18 to 75 cents each.

Quite a novelty in the poultry line are the incubator squab broilers, and dainty little ducks called butterballs sell from $1.90 to $2 a pair.

CONRIED DEAD AFTER ILLNESS OF LONG TIME

MERAN, Austria, April 24.—Heinrich Conried, formerly director of the Metropolitan Opera House of New York, died here to-day. Mrs. Conried was with him.

Mr. Conried, until illness forced him to retire a year ago, was one of the big figures, both in opera and the drama, of this country.

He was born in Silesia, Austria, September 13, 1855. When he first came to this country in the early 80's he engaged in the business of making theatrical costumes in New York. Then he "drifted" into the theatrical business, becoming identified with the old Thalia Theatre on the Bowery, New York. He was business manager of the company, a stock organization given over to the German drama, and frequently he played parts himself.

Next he took charge of the Irving Place Theatre in New York, a house also devoted to plays in the German, and he made this theatre and stock company one of the most successful in the city.

In 1903, when Maurice Grau left the Metropolitan Opera House Mr. Conried was chosen as his successor. His administration lasted until 1908, when a combination of ill health and squabbles with the directors caused him to retire.

He had been ill—almost helpless—in Europe for the last year. His malady was a nervous and spinal affliction.

Mrs. Conried was formerly Augusta Spierling of New York. They were married in 1888.

EIKS TURN OUT TO SEE GUS WILLIAMS

Gus Williams, a pioneer of Dutch comedy in vaudeville and one of the founders of the Boston Lodge of Elks, was given a reception in the Elks' lodge room at No. 10 Hayward place last night, where he was escorted from Keith's Theatre by 150 members of the order who attended the performance. After his monologue at Keith's Mr. Williams was presented with a basket of Killarney roses and called upon to make a speech. There was called banquet at the lodge, after which Mr. Williams told about the founding of the lodge in 1878.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, April 24.—A recovery in the wheat market, further engagements of gold for export, an advance of 3 per cent in the rate for call money and reports of unfavorable conditions for the seeding of Spring wheat, were the adverse factors against which the stock market has to contend and which are utilized by the bears to force a reaction in prices.

Commission houses reported that they find very little inclination on the part of either their regular customers, or of the outside public to buy stocks, and many of them are inclined to advise short sales for a turn.

Continued export of gold is beginning to attract attention at last, although there is no danger of a money squeeze. The feature that is most noticeable just now is that it goes in spite of large bond issues. It would appear from this that not many of these issues are being placed abroad. Plans are under way for the placing of several hundred millions of dollars of bonds in the hands of European investors early in the summer, and it is hoped by those in charge of the market that this will check the gold exports. There are not enough finance bills arising from ordinary trade intercourse with Europe at present to check the gold movement, which is accelerated by the heavy excess of imports over exports.

Ever since the Steel Trust leased the Great Northern ore lands there have been rumors that the trust intended to step out of this lease at the earliest possible opportunity without buying any considerable amount of the ore. The report that the trust has expended $3,000,000 in development work, in addition to making two years' payment on the minimum royalty, would indicate that it had no intention of abandoning these ore fields. Insiders of the Great Northern are pleased over the outlook for heavy traffic in 1910 on account of the ore lands. The trust has paid for two years' supply without taking practically any. The Great Northern gets eighty cents a ton for handling this ore, and as the trust will have to make up all of this tonnage it means a season of abnormal traffic for the Great Northern at a high rate. This will help a little to pay dividends on its new stock.

No association of speculative interests has attracted quite so much attention as that in Can preferred. The issue was put above 80, but allowed to recede gently, in conformity with the general tone and tendency of the market.

It is one of the tightest pools in existence. Practically all of the preferred shares are owned by a combination, which originally consisted of William H. Moore, J. H. Moore, D. G. Reid, W. B. Leeds and the Speyers. Each of the factors agreed to subscribe $5,000,000 to the pool, a total of $25,000,000. The buying began around 30, and had not ceased until practically all of the senior shares had been purchased, at an average of $50 a share.

Of late, however, the Speyers have wished to take profits, and it is understood they were the originators of a plan whereby the back dividends were to be paid by 5 per cent. bonds. It is stipulated in thee sharter of the company that a bond issue may be put out with the consent of two-thirds of the preferred stockholders. The other members of the pool have not countenanced the scheme. They hold that the earnings of the company since January 1 justify the belief that back dividends can be paid in a reasonable time. It is their idea to put the preferred on a 7 per cent. basis and then cancel arrearages by extra distribution from time to time.

This position seems the more feasible in that the company's gross and net net are running at a record rate. The raw material is furnished by the American Tin Plate and the American Sheet Steel companies, both of which are now operating overtime, mainly because of orders from the American Can. The organization controls over 90 per cent. of the country's can trade, so that the leisurely attitude of the Moores seems to be well taken. Nevertheless, the great activity in the shares since Monday indicates that not only will they be accorded a dividend of 7 per cent. in the near future, but that the Speyers will soon have a market in which they can realize.

American Telephone & Telegraph, which on Thursday afternoon had suffered somewhat on profit taking, has again became strong, and close observers say there is continued evidence of accumulation by one of the largest financial interests in Wall street.

SOUTHWESTERN BREAK TO-DAY

STATE STREET—Closing. Desultory trading was all that occurred in the local stock market this forenoon. North Butte was the feature. With more or less activity it broke from 64 to 62¼ and closed weak. On the curb Southwestern Development opened weak at 22 cents, but rose sharply to 35 cents. The announcement of the failure of Barnard & Co. late in the forenoon brought fresh selling and dropped the price close to 20 cents.

Other Market Features.

American Telephone held steady at from 140¾ to 141½ on lessened business. Amalgamated reacted slightly to 76⅝, and East Butte fell to 13⅝. Calumet & Hecla sold at 605 to 610. Barnard & Co. were not members of either the stock or the curb exchanges.

The Curb Market.

Outside of Southwestern Development there was a degree of strength in the curb exchange. Vulture was bought up to 7¼. Bay State Gas dipped to 50 cents. Rawhide Coalition to 32 cents and Majestic to 91 cents. Corbin Copper rose 1 to 7, losing it later.

ICE TO GO UP WALL ST. HEARS

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, April 24.—In spite of the exciting news from Turkey, stocks opened strong in Wall street to-day. The Turkish troubles had a depressing effect upon the London market, but prices recovered before New York began business.

This recovery was due largely to a short interest that existed both in London and New York in Union Pacific and the steel shares. In New York Smelters was one of the strong stocks. Wabash shares were another steady feature. Reading advanced.

Among the specialties American Ice was a leader, crossing 40. The street hears that the price of ice is to be advanced five cents per hundred pounds. Rock Island issues were strong, the common selling across 29.

Interborough-Metropolitan stocks were not materially influenced by the passage of the Subway bill at Albany. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was strong and advanced to the new high record for this year of 76⅝.

"EVERY PICTURE TELLS A STORY"

"HOW CAN I ENDURE THIS?"

IT DRAGS YOU SLOWLY DOWN

It is hard to keep an even temper with a dull pain nagging all day at your back; in fact, kidney troubles are at the bottom of very much of the nervousness and irritability that are so common to-day. You wonder why you are short and cross, can't keep your mind on one thing, are inclined to worry over trifles, and subject to fits of "blues" and despondency. Partly it is due to that pain in your back, partly to the irritating effect of uric acid on your brain and nerves.

Uric acid is a poison that is always forming in the body, and it is the duty of the kidneys to filter it out of the blood and pass it off, dissolved, in the urine. Healthy kidneys do this work thoroughly and well, but weak or sick kidneys get behind, and the waste matter collects here and there in the muscles, joints and nerve centres. Headache, dizzy spells, rheumatism, neuralgia, blurry spots before the eyes, nervousness and heart trouble, are signs of uric poisoning.

So do not wonder at your condition, especially if the urine does not look or pass naturally. And if your back aches continually, or you are taken with sharp cricks and stitches of pain when you stoop, turn, or try to lift, it is sure that your kidneys are out of order and need prompt attention, for sick kidneys cannot right themselves without help.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for the kidneys. They relieve congestion quickly, cleanse the kidneys and the blood, set the filtering system in perfect operation.

Fifty thousand persons publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's a case right at home:

BOSTON TESTIMONY

Mrs. Fred W. Melchin, 485 E. First Street, South Boston, Mass., says: "I consider it a duty as well as a pleasure to give my testimonial in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me after I had given up all hopes of ever being well again. Words cannot express how severely I suffered from backache. Any kind of work completely exhausted me and I was also bothered by the irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills through a friend, I decided to give them a trial as a last resort. I was certainly surprised at the quick results which followed. At the end of two weeks the pains had left my back and the kidney secretions had become normal. I have no hesitation in saying that Doan's Kidney Pills live up to the claims made for them."

WORCESTER, April 24.—Brockton came to this city to-day to start the New England League race with Jesse Burkett's three-time pennant winners and the hungry fans had the first opportunity of watching championship ball in the oval.

The rain spoiled Brockton's opening, so according to the schedule, Steve Flanagan and his crew were booked to play in Worcester to-day, which denied the Shoe City club holding their big opening program.

Brockton gave every appearance of proving dangerous for the local team, being one of the strongest combinations in the League, and Burkett's youngsters had to travel to be in the hunt at any stage of the contest.

Umpire—O'Brien.

NEW BEDFORD, April 24.—The opening of the season here was greeted by a large crowd of fans, who thronged the grounds hoping to see New Bedford administer a defeat to the Lowell team which was the first of the New England League clubs to put in appearance.

The fine performances of the Whalers in their preliminary season caused the local admirers to gather strongly to root for their success, and Manager Dowd had strong backing for his team.

With Jack Slattery behind the bat the Whalers looked strengthened and the large squad of players made the outlook good for New Bedford this year.

The features of the opening which did not take place yesterday on account of the rain were carried out to-day and the game got away with a loud noise.

LAWRENCE, April 24.—The rain of yesterday swirched the opening of the New England League season to this city instead of Haverhill and the Haverhill club was the attraction on the diamond.

The change was greeted by local fans with great satisfaction as it saved them a short journey and the turnout was big when the bell rang for the fireworks to start.

As the opening of the season in this section came unexpectedly no elaborate preparations had been made for the event and the teams got down to business without the frills attendant to the usual inaugural.

Lawrence, picked to battle for the pennant this year, looked stronger than ever and the home team was after a win for a good starter.

LYNN OPENS AT FALL RIVER

Umpire—Buckley.

FALL RIVER, April 24.—The postponement of the opening of the New England League season till this afternoon increased the interest in the contest between Fall River and Lynn. The regular program was carried out with an automobile parade before the game, in which the players of both teams participated, as well as the Mayor and city officials, headed by the American Band. Mayor Coughlin opened the game by throwing the first ball into the diamond.

Billy Hamilton's Shoe City nine is a great attraction here, and the crowd filled the grounds to gaze on his aggregation of fast youngsters.

Both Managers O'Brien of the local team and Hamilton of Lynn put in the strongest men for the opening contest, as each was looking for a victory to start the season right.

HOW WE CAME TO HAVE EYES AND EARS—Scientific explanation of these organs is given in to-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN.

HAL CHASE OUT OF PESTHOUSE

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 24.—Hal Chase, the first baseman of the New York American League baseball team, was released from the pesthouse to-day, where he has been confined since he contracted a mild attack of smallpox several weeks ago. He will join his team immediately. The disease was not virulent enough to leave pockmarks.

100,000 SAW THIS GAME.

LONDON, April 24.—Manchester won from Bristol this afternoon in the biggest football contest of the season, thereby capturing the Association Cup. The game was at Crystal Palace. Manchester scored one goal to Bristol's nothing. One hundred spectators saw the game.

PROVIDENCE, April 24.—Brown played its first important college game of the season to-day when it faced Princeton on Andrews Field.

It was the first time in three years that the two teams have met, and there was much interest to see the Tigers in action.

Brown had its star pitcher, Nourse, on the firing line, while Cunningham officiated for the New Jersey collegians.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

While officiating behind the bat in a game between Indianapolis and Columbus Umpire Owens was struck in the neck with a foul tip and knocked unconscious. He was unable to leave the grounds until after the game. He will be out of the game for three or four days.

Anyhow, Barney Dreyfuss is going to go Ben Shibe one better in naming the new Pirate stamping ground. Forbes Field sounds much better than Shibe Park. General John Forbes, so the story goes, was a distinguished general of the British aristocracy in the colonial days. Shibe fame is largely contained in a certain brand of baseball that has made the American League famous.

Ed Walsh is sending congratulatory telegrams to Manager Billy Sullivan. Here's how Billy reads between the lines: "Coax me a little harder."

* * *

Governor Johnson of Minnesota must be a gownman. He won't stand for Sunday baseball after 6 o'clock.

* * *

Clarke Griffith has invented the "quoit ball." It's up to someone to invent the "horseshoe curve," a shoot which will wind over and under the bat and return to the pitcher.

* * *

President Comiskey of the White Sox denied that Donohue would be traded or sold to the Washington club. He declared that "Jiggs" was too valuable a player to dispose of unless he could secure a big price for him.

McCloskey, who managed the St. Louis Cardinals, is meeting with great success in Milwaukee.

Congressman John K. Tener of Pennsylvania practices with Washington daily. He was at one time a great pitcher.

Washington has a "Dolly" Gray as a pitcher. He is no relation to Dolly Gray who went away one Summer day.

One Western baseball writer, in commenting on the absence of Jones and Walsh from Chicago, says: "They miss them as much as a wagon would miss a horse and wheels." Might sound funny, but it's true.

* * *

Ward Miller, who is playing in the outfield for Pittsburg, stole ninety-three bases in the Wisconsin League last season, and this led to Barney Dreyfuss stealing him.

* * *

Charlie Carr, the Indianapolis magnate who peddled "Rube" Marquard to the Giants for $11,000, seems to have the hunch in picking up youngsters. He uncorked a Southern kid named Lawrence Cheney of Oklahoma the other day who let down the strong Columbus team with two hits. Besides, Cheney struck out a dozen batsmen.

* * *

Catcher Larry McLean, the big backstop of the Reds, is sorer than ever on Cincinnati and wants to be transferred to another major league city. It all came about because the manager of the Savoy Hotel became convinced that McLean was bent on starting a row in the billiard room of his hotel, and called the police and had Larry thrown out.

SIX TEAMS MAKE UP DRY GOODS LEAGUE

The Board of Directors of the Dry Goods Men's Baseball League met last evening at the BOSTON AMERICAN office, and, instead of having the eight teams, the league will go through the season with but six, the original number the league first figured upon having.

The Hovey and the Shepard Norwell teams pulled out, owing to the reason that they could not get players enough in their stores who felt that they could hold up their end in the league. As these two teams having resigned from the league still leaves an even number, it will not be necessary for the league to get any other teams to take their place.

President Frank Rowe called the meeting of the directors to order, and the first business was to accept the resignations of the Hovey and the Shepard Norwell teams, which was done, and then the matter of getting the schedule out for the six remaining teams for the season was suggested, but was put over until the next meeting, which will be held Tuesday evening next at the AMERICAN office at eight o'clock. President Rowe then brought up the question of the deposits that each team shall put up as a guarantee of good faith that they would go through the season and play out their schedule of games.

It was unofficially decided that $25 will be the amount put up by each team after a certain date set at next meeting. This money will go to the league treasury if any team drops out before the season closes, and it will be refunded if they go through.

The meeting to be held Tuesday will be the most important, as the directors expect to finish up all the most important work of the league, such as drawing up the constitution and getting out the schedule. Already, some of the teams have had practice; some have played games, and the league directors feel that everything is going along beautifully, and they look forward to a most successful season.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

WAGNER HARD AT PRACTICE

"This is something like baseball weather," said Connie Mack, while out taking his usual morning constitutional, "and this is the sort of weather that makes every ball player, from the kid on the side lot to the high salaried professional, feel like getting out on the diamond and playing his head off. I'll bet the players work faster this afternoon than they have at any stage of the season, and it's all just on account of this weather. The boys have had a fine rest, having yesterday's contest postponed, and, as usual, after a lay off, are anxious to get back into the harness."

Although the weather is perfect for the infielders and bleacherites the outfielders likely will have their troubles this afternoon. The sky to-day is what the ball tossers call a "high sky," and on account of the lack of clouds the ball is hard to see on the background of blue. Fumbles by the outfielders on a day like this are mostly blamed on the "high sky."

Wagner probably is working harder and longer in practice than any of the Red Sox, for he needs all the work he can get in and outside of the games to make up for what he lost during the Spring training. Wagner was kept at home on account of the illness of his wife during the early months, and is now capering about the short field in an effort to get on even footing with his teammates who have been working regularly.

KETCHELL TO RELINQUISH HIS TITLE

NEW YORK, April 24.—Stanley Ketchell has practically decided to relinquish his claim to the middleweight championship of the world. He won the title when he knocked out Bill Papke in California last year and successfully defended it in the recent bout with Jack O'Brien.

For the latter mill Ketchell found it a hard task to make the middleweight limit of 158 pounds, and since then he has taken on so much weight that he is inclined to the belief that he can never reduce to that figure again. In fact, Ketchell, now that he is matched with Jack Johnson for a twenty-round bout at Colma next October, has started to build up. He is eating three big meals a day and says he weighs even now close to 180 pounds. He will scale at about the same figure if Johnson fights him, and as he will find it impossible to get back into the middleweight class after that mill he has decided to abandon his present title.

As a result, Hugo Kelly, the Chicago puglist, and Bill Papke will fight for the middleweight championship when they come together at Colma on May 15, under the supervision of Promoter James Coffroth. Papke wants this battle to be scheduled for forty-five rounds, but so far Kelly has insited upon twenty-five.

Ketchel does not believe that Johnson will refuse to fight him and also forfeit $5,000, which is in the hands of a stakeholder. Promoter Coffroth holds the same opinion, but Johnson is quoted as saying that he will cancel the match and will gladly lose his $5,000 if he can sign articles of agreement binding Jeffries to a finish fight. At the same time Johnson says that he will not believe that Jeffries means business until he has posted a $5,000 forfeit covering a similar amount which the negro says is up.

part of next December.

For that matter there appears to be bluffing on both sides, for there is no record of a Johnson forfeit, while Jeffries declares that he can post no money until after his present theatrical contract expires. It turns out that when Jeffries signed up for a twenty weeks' vaudeville engagement he gave an option of a similar engagement to his managers, who, it is reported, will keep the big fellow on the stage until the latter

SAYS BRIBER 'DR. CREAMER'

CHICAGO, April 24.—The Tribune says to-day:

"Dr. Creamer" of New York is the name of the "mysterious stranger" who has been barred from all parks in the National and American Leagues as a result of the attempt to bribe Umpires Klem and Johnstone at the time of the memorable Cubs-Giants deciding battle in New York last October.

Notices to this effect, specifying "Dr. Creamer"—without first name or initials—have been sent to the respective magnates by the presidents of the National and American Leagues.

It was this case which caused the furore at the National League meeting in New York last December when the magnates, after apparently wasting two days doing nothing, made their theatrical announcement, but put their fingers to their lips all Winter whenever asked for the name of the alleged culprit.

Then the National League turned the affair over to the National Commission, which heard the affidavits of the umpires and then handed out its decision without making the name public, because an attempt to bribe in such an instance was not an indictable offence in New York.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Dr. Joseph Creamer, No. 35 East Seventh street, who was the official physician for the New York Club last year to-day denied that he had approached O'Day and Klem.

JEFF IN RAGE AT JOHNSON'S SLURS

SAYS HE WILL MAKE NEGRO EAT HIS WORDS

NEW YORK, April 24.—"I'm faking and four-flushing, am I? Well, that black fellow will eat those words when I get him in the ring," said Jeffries in a towering rage when shown a story from Pittsburg in which Johnson said Jeffries was not on the level.

"Now that fellow can holler all he likes," continued Jeff. "I'm not bluffing, and neither Mr. Morris nor any other man has forced this announcement from me. I went along earnestly and when the time came for me to say when, I just said it.

"Why should that black question me? He's the most notorious fakir and runout man in the history of the game. He tells me to put up $5,000. What for? Is there any one who doubts my determination to regain the ring honors for the white man? Few true sports will ever take Johnson at his word.

"Here's the situation. I'm not going to pay the least attention to him. I'm bound by contracts for twenty weeks to come. I'm longing for the last performance. Then, and not till then, will Johnson get a chance to address me, and it will be short and sweet. I'll do my talking with him then with my fists. It will be the greatest line of talk he ever listened to. Just wait until I get him."

Jeff then flopped down to sweat out after an hour's training behind the scenes. His bout before the footlights had been work enough for any ordinary man. But not Jeff. He said:

"I never felt so full of fight in my life, and it is because I've had such a long rest. Why should my friends fear for my condition. I wasn't like other champions who quit when knocked out with rum or old age. I quit when I was right. I'm coming back after a layoff. Why shouldn't I get prime again? If Young Corbett can do it after the life he has led I can't see why a domestic, ranch-loving old bear like myself couldn't be as sound as ever. Didn't Jim Corbett come back when he was thirty-seven and fight his best against me?

"Bunking the public. Well, just wait. Mr. Johnson will sing a different tune. What has he done? Whipped a good little middleweight, Tommy Burns. That's all. He's done less to deserve the honors handed down to us by good old John L. Sullivan than any big fellow who ever thought he could fight.

"By the way, Jim oCrbett was just in to see me. He is falling all over himself to fight the negro. He's honest about it, too. He said: 'Jeff, I cannot fight you, but that black fellow can't hit my shadow. I started by holding Peter Jackson off and I want to regain the title and end my ring days by beating his successor. I can do it, too, Jim.'

"And then he said: 'Jeff, if between us we can't whip Johnson then one of us must be bad.'"

KETCHELL WILL MEET LANGFORD

Stanley Ketchell, through his manager, Willus Britt, accepted the $10,000 of Manager McCarey of the Pacific Club of Los Angeles for a ten-round bout on July 11 and as Manager Woodman has telegraphed his acceptance to meet the middleweight champion the match is definitely on only the drawing up of the articles being necessary.

Langford will sail next week for England, but plans to return in time to get to California to meet Ketchell in the match which will decide the middleweight championship.

If Langford should defeat Ketchell in the ten-round bout it will spoil a chance of Ketchell going through with his match with Johnson in October, but the colored champion may call it off anyway since Jeffries has stated that he is ready to fight.

REMARKABLE NOVELTIES IN AUTOMOBILE CLOTHES are shown in the SUNDAY AMERICAN of to-morrow.

TRAINER STINSON QUITS MISS WILKS

Harry C. Stinson, who for a number of years has trained and raced the trotters owned by Miss Wilks of Cruickston stock farm, Galt, Ont., will train a public stable at one of the mile tracks this season, his contract with her having expired.

Among the good trotters Hary has raced and given records are Sadie Mac, 2:06¼, and Kentucky Todd, 2:08¾, at three years, at one time the champion three-year-old stallion. Last year he raced the handsome little gray three-year-old Oro Lambert, 2:17¾, and while he did not reduce his two-year-old mark, he trotted better than 2:10 in a race.

FOR THE WIZARD'S BENEFIT

On next Monday night a double bill has been arranged for Wizard Jake Schaefer's benefit, to take place at Miah Murray's billiard rooms, at No. 1156 Washington street. John T. McHale, champion pool player of New England, will play Bob Upton of Salem 100-ball continuous pool, and Joe Hood, the Napoleon of fancy shots, will give an exhibition of his skill.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

YOUNG CORBETT BESTS KEYES

NEW YORK, April 24.—Young Corbett of Denver, former featherweight champion of the world, defeated Bert Keyes, local lightweight, at the Fairmont Club, in a ten-round bout. The contest was a furious one from start to finish, but the "Little Billie" was never in danger. In the eighth round Corbett scored a right over the heart that took all the steam out of Keyes, and it was only by the greatest cleverness that Keyes managed to keep out of harm's way in the concluding rounds.

In the final round Corbett took good aim, and with all the force in his body sent a right to Keyes's stomach, and only by a sort of miracle did Bert land and stay on his feet.

Then the gong rang, saving Keyes from a possible knockout.

Corbett showed more speed and cleverness in the bout than he has manifested in any of his battles since his re-entrance to the ring, and his friends went home happy and confident that if he ever tackles the Dane he will win easily.

SPORTING MISCELLANY

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 24.—New York University's senior eight, the first opponents of the midshipmen on the Severn this season, arrived early and took their final practice. Coach Van Vliet used the torpedo boat Manley as a coaching launch, and his men were given light work over the inner course and then over the outside course, where the race will be rowed to-day.

WORCESTER, April 24.—Although many of the Holy Cross baseball team are ill with ptomaine poisoning, contracted on the Southern trip, the game with Fordham to-day will be played as scheduled. An attempt was made to have the game postponed, but as Fordham had already left New York the game will have to be played.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 24.—"Jim" Rector, the Virginia runner, has issued a challenge to meet Walker, the fleet South African, at any time or place.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Leland Stanford University and the University of California have been invited to participate in the "Big Eight" conference track meet to be held on Marshall Field here June 5. In all 123 universities and colleges in the West have had invitations sent to them by the alumni committee in charge of the contests. It is believed that both the coast universities will be represented by strong squads.

KINGSTON, R. I., April 24.—Track Manager Goodale called a meeting at the Rhode Island State College of the men interested in track athletics and about forty students reported. The meeting was the first of its kind this year and was simply to get a line on the prospects. The interclass meet will be held soon to try out the team.

BAT NELSON RAKES PACKEY

Battling Nelson is showing in Buffalo this week and playing to packed houses. In speaking of his match with McFarland, the Battler has the following to say:

"I am about the happiest man in this big city to-day. I made that Chicago bluffer, Packey McFarland, sign articles of agreement to meet me, and I intend now and I prophesy that I will give Mr. McFarland the worst whaling that I ever handed out to any boxer that I ever met.

"I intend to do this for several reasons. In the first place, he lives in Chicago, where I have always been a big drawing card, and living there, he has done everything in his power to belittle me and to make money and reputation off me. Again and again he has challenged me, and again and again, as soon as I pinned him down he threw up his hands, chased to another city, tried the same dodge and got away with it."

BOXING BITS OF NEWS

Dick Summers, a new heavyweight in the pugilistic field, is out with a challenge to box Dr. B. F. Roller, the Seattle physician, any number of rounds for a side bet. Summers is a Chicago boy, although he originally came from the East. He weighs 220 pounds and is six feet two inches tall.

* * *

Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, and Tony Caponi of Chicago may fight in Calumet during June. A $5,000 purse is being raised for the fight by merchants of Hancock, Houghton and Calumet. The attempt to get Langford and Ketchel together has been abandoned.

* * *

The bill prohibiting prize fighting in California on Memorial Day was signed by Governor Gillette. This will affect the Nelson-Hyland fight.

* * *

Morris Bloom, the local lightweight, has been matched to box Jimmy Cooley of Indianapolis in the latter place April 28. The weight is to be 133 pounds at 3 o'clock. They boxed a hard draw not long ago and the club hastened to rematch them.

* * *

Though Jeff says he will fight, a whole lot of time will elapse before he can sign up, meanwhile lots of changes may take place on the map pugilistical.

* * *

It looks as if Coffroth is still a king bee amongst the matchmakers, and after all that we will hold the big battles this side of the big drink.

* * *

Packey McFarland has for a sparring partner the Rev. F. R. Wedge, the pugilistic pastor of Omaha. The athletic churchman is a strong advocate of boxing, and devotes much of his spare time to social bouts. It is said that in his early days he figured in a number of real battles.

* * *

There is little indication of the National Club of New York opening this Summer, and, if at all, the club may open next Fall, but not under the directorship. The National Club could be made one of the best-paying propositions in the country, and with the proper handling and under favorable conditions the club could be turned into a "little mint."

* * *

Eddie Hanlon has just bought one of the best-paying cafes in San Francisco, and has given up his idea of going back into the ring.

* * *

Johnny Coulon will run up against a tough kid when he meets Monte Attell in a twenty-five-round bout before Jim Coffroth's club on May 30. Monte is the image of Leach Cross, is clever, can hit and has only one or two decisions against him. He can make 115 pounds nicely. Harry Foley has been managing Monte for the past year and has improved him wonderfully.

* * *

Baltimore will be the scene of several good bouts during the racing season there, which opens this week. Tommy Murphy and Kid Sullivan will open the carnival in a fifteen-round bout on April 27. This will be followed by a fifteen-round go between Frankie Neil and Patsey Kline. The latter bout will be a fight worth seeing.

* * *

Frankie Neil and Kid Griffo are working like demons getting in trim for Neil's battle with Owen Moran at New Haven next Monday night. The promoters are banking on a packed house, and all the ground floor seats at the Star Theatre, where the bout will be held, have been sold. They expect to eclipse the receipts of the Harry Lewis-Willie Lewis fight, which drew $4,800.

* * *

Young Otto, the lightweight of one-round fame, has been matched to meet Jimmy Britt in a twenty-round battle at Arque de Paris, the battle to take place between May 5 and 15. This news comes in a letter to a friend of Otto. The New Yorker is now in England, where he has a number of bouts on his schedule.

* * *

Freddie Welsh has agreed to all the terms of the Fairmount Club, New York, to meet Johnny Frayne in a ten-round contest on April 30. The weight agreed upon is 133 pounds at 3 o'clock the day of the contest, a notch that will bring both men into the ring strong.

* * *

When Sam McVey, the negro fighter, lost to Joe Jeanette in Paris Saturday night, he lost not only the fight, but much money. McVey for the past few years has been living in Paris, and while there has become the idol of the French. He has defeated practically all his opponents until Jeanette arrived. McVey has been billed by the French as the greatest fighter in the world. But in the first bout with Jeanette, some time ago, the latter put up the better bout, although McVey was awarded the fight. Jeanette got his revenge.

RICHARD J. BURTON CO.
BANKERS AND BROKERS

Capital Stock $100,000
10,000 SHARES $10 EACH

At a meeting of the directors of this company, held on April 17th, the second quarterly dividend of 2% was declared, payable on and to stockholders of record April 20. A much larger dividend might have been declared, but the directors deemed it prudent to keep the stock on an 8% basis for the present, leaving the balance to go to surplus account.

The stock of the company is now largely in the hands of investors, all of whom purchased it at par, $10 a share. In view of greatly increased earnings, the company now withdraws all outstanding offerings at $10, and offers

526 SHARES AT $12.50 A SHARE
560 SHARES AT $15.00 A SHARE
950 SHARES AT $17.50 A SHARE

Orders will be filled in the order received, and for any number of shares—even as low as one share—as we desire as many stockholders as possible. We submit that the advance information which our stockholders received last week on a stock which advanced very materially, was worth all it cost them for the stock they hold in our company—and judging from the manner in which some of them took advantage of the information, it was worth thousands of dollars to them.

We are a live crowd, always turning up new opportunities for ourselves and our stockholders, and once we take on a proposition we never abandon it until we have made good. We have met opposition at every turn of the road, but it only makes us more determined to "get there," and all the world loves to see this fighting, aggressive spirit. Followers of State street can now see the handwriting on the wall—"Can see us coming." Do not delay; join us today. It may be the stepping-stone to your "Opportunity."

John L. Sullivan's Column

Some people have got the idea in their heads that knocking is a specialty of mine, which I would like to dispel as quickly as possible, for that is far from being my impression of fair play. My criticisms may be a little strong at times, but everybody has his own point of view of things and I have mine. Although I was a bricklayer in early life I never practiced the art of throwing them. I may have had a punch which caused some admiration, but it was never meant to throw the hammer.

While I may tell some plain truths connected with the fighting game and express myself as they appear to me, there is never any malice underlying anything that my pen quotes, as foul hitting was always barred by me.

Americans who are much in the public eye owe it to posterity to set a good example for those who honor them with so much prestige, and it's me to do the best I can.

It's my good old town Boston which takes pride in setting the manners for the rest of the country to follow and I owe it to the historic spot and its people to conduct myself as one of its best representatives would, and as one of her illustrious sons it's me for the good behavior in print and every place I go.

There is no mother's son prouder of dear old Boston than myself. Her streets may be narrow but her people are broad and you won't find a better crowd of standpatters in Uncle Sam's domain.

It was on the bean diet that I became heavyweight champion of the world and many more topnotchers have been hatched on the same foodstuff.

When you look over the field and see what Boston has done in the way of advancing sport in most every line the outsiders will have to take off their hats to the land first visited by the Pilgrims.

Not only have noted statesmen but celebrated prizering heroes were raised on the succulent well baked bean. It gave me the courage to fight everybody with a white skin who was willing to take a chance.

Had I stuck closer to the bean and dispensed with pursuing some other things which began with R's there might have been another chapter added to my ring career.

So I would advise all who would make some headway in becoming famous not to overlook the little white bean, whose color is synonymous with what it develops in the brand of men.

Answers to Letters.

Dear Sir—Please tell me the official Marathon distance as run at Athens and why was it changed at Olympic games in London? G. B.

The exact distance according to the Greeks was 42 kilometers, a trifle under 25 miles, and that was the distance adopted by the B. A. A. for its annual Patriots' Day event for the past thirteen years. Last Summer the English officials in order to stretch the distance to Windsor added a mile and 385 yards. Up to that time the race had been 25 miles at World's Exposition and other big events.

Dear Sir—Please tell me could I develop into a boxer and how long does it take to train? I am twenty-five years old and have not done any training of any sort, but consider myself pretty fit. READER.

If you are in it for your health boxing will do you a lot of good. It needs an early start to become proficient in the prize ring.

John L. Sullivan:
Dear Sir—Please tell me if Jeffries was a boilermaker before he became a prizefighter?
Providence. R. F. H.

He was a boilermaker by trade before he took up fighting.

John L. Sullivan:
Dear Sir—Please tell where I can get a book giving information on the duties of a baseball captain and manager. How one should train for a ten-mile race. Who holds the mile schoolboy record around Boston and what is it?
Chelsea. CONSTANT READER.

Write to A. G. Spalding Co., Chicago, Ill. Do road work for ten-mile race. Ballard of Providence Tech holds scholastic indoor mile record of 4:43. Outdoor record held by Mills, 4:33 4-5.

John L. Sullivan:
Dear Sir—Please tell me if Gotch and Ketchell met would Ketchell be able to put Gotch out before Gotch secured a fall? S. E. R.
Providence.

Gotch claims to know a little fighting besides being the heavyweight wrestling champion, but in most mixed matches the boxer has usually got away with the wrestler.

MURRAY OPENS NEW PLACE.

There was a big gathering of the sporting fraternity and billiard lovers yesterday at the opening of Miah Murray's new billiard palace, the White Bear, at No. 665 Washington street, over the Gaiety Theatre. Everything was in readiness for the use of the cue followers, who looked over the improved and up-to-date equipment with satisfaction.

CONKLE BESTS KAISER.

OSWEGO, N. Y., April 24.—Charles Conkle of Hamilton, Ont., was awarded the decision over Charles Kaiser of Oswego, for the welterweight wrestling championship. Kaiser retired after twenty-five minutes' wrestling, his ribs having been injured.

BIKE MARATHON RACE.

There will be a Marathon bicycle race at the Newark Velodrome track Sunday, in which Champion Frank Kramer, Joe Fogler, Anderson the Dane, Vanoni the Italian, Krebs the Dutchman, Halstead the Australian and several other stars will go the distance. All these riders are well known in Boston, as they competed at the Park Square indoor track.

RECORD TROTTER SOLD.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 24—J. D. Callery has sold to Henry P. Haas, of this city, Alice Edgar, 2:12¼, that good looking daughter of Moko. It is said that Mr. Haas will later on send her to Kentucky and breed her to Walnut Hill, 2:08¾.

MELLODY SAILS FOR GAY PAREE

BY TAD.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Honey Mellody, the Charlestown fighter who was once holder of the welterweight title, left for Paris this morning, where he is to battle with Willie Lewis.

Mellody has been out of the ring a year now, and feels that he needed the rest. His fights just before his retirement were not to his liking, and he thought that the rest might help him regain his old-time form.

Lewis at the present time is the real cheese in Paris. He has beaten them all, from welters to heavies, and the promoters were looking for a man to fight him. Mellody knocked Lewis out a few years ago at Valley Falls, and gave Willie a licking that he'll never forget.

Mellody feels that he has the number of the Lewis person, and, although he is due to fight on May 8, thinks that with the training he will get aboard ship he will be just on edge for his old-time opponent. His wife goes with him, and they go direct to Paris.

"I will see the rest of Europe after I beat Lewis, and you can bet that if I don't Willie will know that we were mixing some just before the finish."

* * *

Joe Bowker arrived in dear old London on the 8th with a very sour expression on his face. He says that he contracted malaria before his fight with Delmont, which helped him lose, and in the O'Toole fight declares positively that he was not down six seconds when the referee counted him out. Alf Wicks went home with him.

* * *

According to Sporting Life, Mr. Jim Barry has landed in Cherbourg, France, looking for trouble. Jim is out with a challenge to Joe Jeannette now, and doesn't care whether the thing is for a finish or not. Jim beat Jeannette here in New York, at the Princess Club, in a six-round go, and should be just the fellow to make Joe hustle for the French fight fans.

Young Otto meets Young Josephs, at Wonderland, next Monday night in a bout for the lightweight championship of England. The boys are fighting for a $3,000 purse, $1,000 of which is side-money. They are to box twenty rounds, the winner receiving 60 per cent. of the purse. Mr. Eugene Corri, who refereed the Burns-Moir fight, will be third man in the ring.

There are twelve preliminary fights, and the admission prices range from $1.25 to $10 ringside.

ST. YVES-SHRUBB RACE TO-NIGHT

NEW YORK, April 24.—Two of the fastest men in the world run a dual fifteen-mile race on the American League grounds to-night, when Alfred Shrubb, the English whirlwind, meets Henri St. Yves, the Frenchman.

Shrubb should rule the favorite, as fifteen miles is more to his liking. He is considered the world's peer from two to ten miles. He is credited as being the only human who has run ten miles under fifty-one minutes.

The Frenchman has never shown any great speed under twenty miles, but his victory in the Marathon Derby over Longboat, Dorando, Maloney and Hayes has boomed him as a long distance plugger.

Watch the Ash
WHEN YOU SMOKE
A 5-Cent Cigar

If it is a Pippin the ash will be uniform in color and texture, straight and clean, tough enough to stick on the cigar until you have smoked an inch or so. This means that the filler is long leaf tobacco extending the whole length.

If you want to prove this, buy a Pippin and some other 5-cent cigar. Split the wrappers and look at the filler of each. You will find the Pippin filled with long leaf. We don't know what you will find in the other.

Of course, you don't buy cigars to split—you buy them to smoke. But you know once and for all by this test that you can be sure of Pippins.

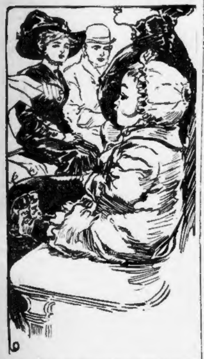
The Baby—High Ruler of Us All

The Homage His Purity Evokes Should Teach Women a Lesson

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

THE hour was 1 a. m., and the street car held a motley collection of men and women—men who looked hopeless and discouraged, as though they had drunk of life's dregs, and women who—but the women were a sadder sight than the men, with their pitiful attempts at beauty, their faded finery. They were the typical, homeless waifs of a great city.



The sight of the baby brought tears to the eyes of the woman.

Some of the faces were merely sad and hopeless, some bore marks of dissipation.

Into this group came the baby. She stumped into the car ahead of her mother, her two shabby little boots making much important clatter.

Up on the seat she climbed all by her independent little self, stuck her two short little legs straight out in front of her, clasped her two chubby hands across her fat little person and smiled cheerfully and impartially on society in general.

"I comed in all by myself," she confided breathlessly to a very fat man who sat across the aisle from her.

The fat face lost its expression of stolid misery and creased into unaccustomed smiles.

They Worshipped Her Purity

She confided several other extremely personal detail to any one who might care to listen, and before the car had gone two blocks every man and woman in it was, figuratively speaking, at the baby's feet.

She wasn't pretty and her clothes were sadly worn and shabby, but in her clear eyes was the blessed look of purity which all people worship.

Other more fortunate babies were tucked safely in their soft nests, but this baby had a work of mercy to do. She had to bring a gleam of sunshine into a number of weary, sin-stained hearts.

Every eye in the car was upon her as she prattled her artless baby talk and smiled her angelic baby smile.

A girl with a bold, brazen face, covered with paint and powder, leaned forward and touched the soft little hand as gently and tenderly as though she were the baby's mother. Perhaps she thought the contact might bring back some of the purity of her own lost girlhood.

A man with a bitter, dissipated face dived into his pocket and produced a penny which he proffered the baby as timidly as though he had been asking a favor of a queen.

Keep Sweet and Innocent

Farther down the car a woman with a hard, bold face gazed at the baby with eyes whose longing was blurred by tears, the first, I am sure, that had dimmed those eyes in many days.

A group of boisterous young people who got into the car stopped their rude fun making and gazed with all the rest of us at the baby. It was her day, or rather night, and purity held high carnival.

For it was her purity and innocence that we all worshipped. There is nothing in the world that is so reverenced, that all men look upon as so holy a thing as purity.

Remember that, girls, and try to keep your sweetness and innocence. Neither beauty nor wit will bring you the adoration and reverence that purity will.

If you make the effort you can keep yourselves just as pure and sweet as that little child who held the hearts of a score of men and women in her baby hand as the street car journeyed on its weary midnight way.

Advice to the Lovelorn

BREAK THE ENGAGEMENT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty years of age and have been engaged to a young man five years my senior about two months. I like him very much, but do not love him. I could try to learn to love him, but the reason I don't is because he acts cold to me and does not show any love at all, and that makes me believe he does not care for me. Now, dear Miss Fairfax, what would you advise me to do—break the engagement or wait?

A CONSTANT READER.

IF you do not love each other I do not see any sense in continuing the engagement. It would simply mean a loveless marriage, and you would both be unhappy.

WRITE POLITE REFUSAL

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A fellow whose company bores me invited me to a ball, and I hate to hurt his feelings by refusing, because he is very good hearted. How can I get out of it without slighting him and making him understand my reason for refusing his kind invitation? I think when you get to be twenty-one years old there is no use going out with fellows for whom you have no liking; and, besides, we have a mutual friend for whom I do care.

A. G.

THE only thing to do is to write a polite refusal, without giving any special excuse. Just say that it will be impossible for you to accept his kind invitation. Unless he is very thick-headed he will see that you do not care to go, but if your refusal is kindly put he will not take offence.

WHAT GOES UP COMES DOWN

The miller pays more for wheat; must charge more for flour.

The baker must charge more for bread. And the whole load falls on the heads of the consumer and his family. Put the gambler at the top in jail—that's the remedy.

On Livermead Sands

By WILLIAM JOHNSON CORY

FOR waste of scheme and toil we grieve,
For snowflakes on the wave we sigh;
For writings on the sand that leave
Naught for to-morrow's passer-by.

WASTE, waste; each knoweth his own worth,
And would be something ere he sink
To silence, ere he mix with earth,
And part with love and cease to think.

SHALL I comfort thee and me,
My neighbor preaching thus of waste
Count yonder planet fragments; see
The meteors into darkness haste.

LO! Myriad germs at random float,
Fall on no fostering home, and die
Back to mere elements; every mote
Was framed for life, as thou, or I.

FOR ages over soulless eyes,
Ere man was born, the heavens in vain
Dipt clouds in dawn and sunset dyes
Unheeded; and shall we complain?

Aye, Nature plays that wanton game,
And Nature's hierophants may smile,
Contented with their lore; no blame
To rhymers if they groan meanwhile.

SINCE that which yearns toward minds of men,
Which flashes down from brain to lip,
Finds but cold truth in mammoth den,
With spores, with stars, no fellowship.

SAY we that our ungarnered thought
Drifts on the stream of all men's fate,
Our travail is a thing of naught,
Only because mankind is great?

BORN to be wasted, even so,
And doomed to feel, and lift no voice;
Yet not unblest, because I know
So many other souls rejoice.

The Difference—By Kennett Harris

YOU complain of the cost of the things that you eat,
And the cost of the things that you drink,
Of your coffee and tea, or your bread and your meat,
And you rail at conditions with positive heat,
But it's not quite as bad as you think.
Here am I, for example; I manage to feed
On the fat of the land, and have all that I need,
I have had little loss and a great deal of gain.
Don't you think it is sinful and mean to complain?

YOU consider that you are abused by the law.
It is cruel, you think, and unjust,
You've been jobbed, you've been robbed by some technical flaw,
And the wounds you've received are still bleeding and raw.
You are filled with the deepest disgust.
It is mournful, indeed, is the tale that you tell,
But the law's treating me and my friends mighty well.
We have got even more than our due in the main.
Don't you think that it's sinful and mean to complain?

DON'T adopt, my dear friend, the black pessimist's view.
It's a pretty good world, after all.
All the prospect I see has a roseate hue,
I perceive no occasion to fuss or to stew,
Though your cause for rejoicing is small.
Do you think of yourself and your fancied distress,
But observe and be glad of your neighbor's success.
Just as first you may find it a bit of a strain,
But it's awfully sinful and mean to complain.

Wanted—A Change

By KENNETT HARRIS.

I AM sick of the life I am leading;
It is awfully, terribly tame.
A change—that is what I am needing;
I am getting so much of the same
That I want to draw out of the game.
Of the people I know I am weary,
Just excepting a fortunate few,
And the outlook at present is dreary
To get anything new.

I AM sick to the soul of this toiling;
It's a feeling I cannot dispel.
From the food that I eat I'm recoiling,
And I don't like my clothes very well;
They're the cheapest the outfitters sell.
I am tired of the sights I am seeing;
They're the same old monotonous hue.
I could be quite a different being
If conditions were new.

IF I just had some elegant leisure,
With the money I wanted to spend,
Some companions devoted to pleasure,
And with nothing my sight to offend,
And if this through my life might extend!
Downy couches, rich raiment, fat feeding,
All these things I consider my due;
But they're not what I get, so I'm pleading
Just for anything new.

There Will Come a Sunny Day

By GEORGE H. WINCH

IT'S hard luck for yours to-day, brother,
It's hard luck for yours to-day;
Everything goes agin' you;
Things don't come your way.
I've been all over the road, brother,
And know about what you'd say.
Let me sing you a comforting word, my boy:
There will come a sunny day.

I DON'T know what's on your mind, brother—
Money, or Woman, or Grief—
But millions have been there before, son,
And millions have found relief.
So now I would sing you a song of hope,
And beg you to heed what I say—
The clouds will all roll by, brother,
If you'll live for a sunny day.

IT ain't no use to quit, brother,
Get out of the game, or squeal;
Keep right on peggin' away, my boy,
An' wait for a better deal.
Oh, I know, I know it's tough, brother,
Still I bid you don't give way;
The road is long, but you'll grow strong
As you wait for the sunny day.

YOU can bore a hole in your head, brother,
Take a dose to end it all,
But you'll be a long time dead, sonny.
The world won't notice you fall.
There are others in trouble, too, brother,
Travelling their dark, weary way,
So "get up and git" and do your bit,
And stay for that sunny day.

SHOULD you say it can never come, brother,
Tho' your load never gets much lighter,
If you do the right thing, it will surely bring
Days that will seem much brighter;
Oh, give the glad hand to others, brother,
As o'er life's hard road you stray,
And as surely as time doth match with rhyme,
You'll find your sunny day.

The Manicure Lady in Bohemia

She Tries Red Ink and Realizes Only Creditors Are Sincere

"I WAS to another Bohemian dinner last night," said the Manicure Lady. "If I look pensive to-day, George, don't blame me, blame the red ink."

"I wouldn't blame you ever," said the Head Barber, "for looking pensive, but I do sure blame you for playing them Bohemian dinners. What in the world ever makes you do it?"

"Just fate, I reckon," said the Manicure Lady. "You notice I said 'reckon,' George? Well, I got that from a Southern gal which sat next to me at this Bohemian dinner. She was only there, she explained, because she was visiting in the city with her brother and her brother had told her a Bohemian dinner was the real McCoy."

"Did you and her get along finely?" asked the Head Barber.

"Well," said the Manicure Lady, "yes and no."

"What was the trouble?"

"You All,"—Such a Stoutness

"No trouble to speak of," said the Manicure Lady, "but she used one little expression time and again that I wasn't quite on to. She had a awful sweet voice, George, one of them little Eva to Uncle Tom kind of voices, but she kept calling me 'you all' instead of 'you.'

"Heaven knows I'm getting stout, George, though I reach over and touch the tiled floor of the bathroom a hundred times every morn, and I tried hard not to be too sensitive about the sylph-like figger which has went beyond recall, but I do hate to have anybody rub it in by springing 'you all.'

"I ain't sure that she meant anything, because Wilfred told me when I was springing it at the breakfast table this morning that most Southern girls use that expression when they are up North, but it grated, just the same.

"But wait till I slip you the big laugh. After the dinner was over, they cleared away the things and we all sat around the studio in a ring, like them harem favorites you always see the oil paintings of. Then the host gets up and calls for recitations, and three or four young poets gets up in a row and pulls their latest unpublished stuff.

"One of them was grand. He was taller than you and slimmer, and he had large dark eyes and black tie which reached from the home plate almost to left field. This is what he recited, because I got him to write it on my paper napkin after the show was over:

"'When in the cool and solemn dusk
The pipes of Pan are calling me,
I hear eternity and see
Kernels of Truth, each in its husk.'" don't he write something for one of them mineral water firms? They're always looking for ads."

A Young Turk From Ireland

"I should say he wouldn't," said the Manicure Lady. "Mineral water ain't good for poets.

"But wait till I give you the big laugh

"I bet he never got no money for doing that," declared the Head Barber. "Why

CHARLIE JOHNSON

She blushed as she spoke to the Sultan.

I was telling you about. One of the girls which was there—I can't remember her name—was made up to look just like a Oriental, and told us a lot of stuff about her life in Turkey. 'I won't go so far as to say much about the Sultan,' she says, blushing, 'but him and me was often seen in the same salons.'

"And with that, George, in comes her father, the funniest old Irishman you ever saw, and says 'Briget, your mother wants you at home. Her friend from India is calling, and wants her kimony to wear at a mask ball.' And with that they leave the studio, George, the old Turk and the Young Turk. Bohemians ain't sincere, George."

"Who is sincere?" said the Head Barber.

"Creditors, George," said the Manicure Lady. "Creditors."

"The Truth About Turkish Women"

No. 1. Turkish Mothers Exalted by Their Sons

By HENRY W. FISCHER

THAT the Turk holds his mother in the highest esteem, treating her with deference even to the point of denying himself the privilege of taking a seat in her presence, unless thrice invited to do so, and that this same Turk takes cruel delight in murdering the sons of other mothers by the hundreds, is one of the paradoxes of the Oriental character, swayed alike by sentiment and fanaticism.

Muhamed Adil du Moulin, a citizen of Constantinople, educated in France, describes the first phase in a delightful book—"the Truth About Turkish Women, by a Turk"—about to be published in Paris; of the other, the news columns give sad details.

The volume mentioned is the more noteworthy as it is the first of its kind.

Never before has Moslem shed light on the mysterious land beyond the Turkish "Woman's House," called harem, nor was Christian ever privileged to do so, it being utterly impossible for a non-Turk to gain admittance even to the meanest of the thrice-guarded seraglios, though of "fake harems,' open for the inspection of tourists, there are plenty both in Constantinople and Morocco. I have paid for admission to them myself, and never spent a five-franc piece more foolishly.

The Turk in His Own Home

The relations between the Turk, his mother, wife, friends and servants are well depicted in the chapter called "A Scene in the Harem."

News that the husband and father is about to come home has just been communicated to the inmates.

Immediately the young slave girls and women visitors withdraw, while the elder female servants assemble at the door to receive the master.

The wife awaits him at the door of her room with the usual "God bless thee." At the same time she takes his hand, kisses it and raises it to her forehead.

"Mother is waiting," she says, and conducts him to the elder woman's room.

If, on the other hand, the Turk comes to the harem in his wife's absence, or at an unusual hour, he first sends for his mother's private servant, inquiring whether she receives at that hour.

Being assured of welcome, he sends the servant to learn "whether he may do himself the honor to kiss his mother's feet." And not until the audience is officially granted durst he present himself at the door of her room.

How He Greets His Mother

The Turk greets his mother in the same ceremonious fashion that the wife extends to him. He is her son, the wife he regards as his child. And until the mother says, "sit down, my boy," and repeats the phrase twice, he would never dare to cross his legs on the floor.

The wife remains standing, no matter how long the interview lasts, the mother having too much respect for her son to ask her to sit down in his presence, and the son esteeming his mother too highly to invite the "child" to a seat.

Help for Spinsters

WHAT to do with and for its spinsters is becoming a burning question in Massachusetts, which has long held its record of possessing the greatest proportional surplus of women of any State in the Union. There are said to be no less than 100,000 spinsters and widows in the Bay State who must look out for themselves, and there has been much discussion of schemes for their benefit and relief.

Recently prominent business and professional women of Boston have organized for the purpose of getting the State to aid in purchasing small tracts of land, on which lone women can engage in agricultural pursuits.

The Women's Massachusetts Homestead Association intends to have its beneficiaries cultivate small plots and raise flowers, herbs, mushrooms, strawberries, vegetables, squabs, chickens, bees and pigs.

Cheap, comfortable houses will be built on these plots, and necessary implements also will be supplied.

A wealthy New York woman stands ready to contribute $300,000 to the project, and a Brookline (Mass.) philanthropist has offered to lend his big farm for experiments along this line.

To-day's Best Story

BRAMLEY had a dog. It was a good, gristly dog, with a fond brown eye and bay-window teeth. He was a dog with a sense of humor, too. He loved to sit upon his master's doorstep and blink dreamily until a stranger passed his house. Then he would leap up and bark in a manner which suggested that the stranger was a deep-dyed villain.

"Possibly," remarked a passer-by to Bramley, "if I were to give that ill-conditioned brute a sound kicking, he would stop scaring passers-by out of their wits."

July 11th.

THE nights are so horrible! If I could only sleep! But for weeks I have lain awake until 3 or 4 in the morning.

And all through these long hours my mind is going over and over the same thing. Night and day the thought of that other woman is always with me.

July 13th.

TO-DAY I did a strange thing. I took a car to a cheap boarding house section of the city and looked for a room.

I had made a list of a few addresses from the morning paper, advertising "well-furnished hall bedrooms, hot and cold water, excellent table board."

For so long I have been haunted with the thought of how little I could live on that today I felt I must know.

I went to all the places on my list.

The "well-furnished" rooms were alike—wretchedly shabby and dingy. The battered furniture, the faded carpets, the dark halls, and the musty smell of cooking!

And the dining rooms, invariably in the basement, were unspeakably horrible. Long tables with soiled cloths, thick plates and heavy glasses and knives and forks with silver worn off.

Along the centre of each table were arranged the glass sugar bowls, the blackened catsup bottles, the smeared oil and vinegar cruets.

A hall bedroom and board in these places cost from six to seven dollars a week.

Could I live like that? At each place the "landlady" looked curiously at my clothes.

One of them asked bluntly for whom I wished the room, and I answered in confusion: "For a friend."

July 15th.

YESTERDAY I asked Horace what yearly interest came from the fifteen hundred dollars I received from Cousin Allen's estate.

He looked up in surprise. "Why, Mary, you don't mean that you need—"

And I answered hurriedly: "Oh, no, I don't need the money; the amount you give me for my own and the household expenses is more than enough. I merely wondered how much a small sum like that would bring in yearly."

"Let me see: I bought some Missouri Pacific with that—did I not? Well, it is paying—now. I should say that would be about —— a year."

"If it were sold outright, how much would it bring now?" I asked.

"Oh, somewhere around eighteen hundred. But what do you mean? You never asked such questions before."

FORTUNES IN FRUIT LANDS.

ARCADIA IS A 10,000-acre tract of the finest orchard lands in the Northwest, located in Spokane and Stevens counties, Washington. A great irrigation canal has been built through the tract and the land is being planted to apple trees. Arcadia will be operated as a great commercial orchard—the largest in the world. As soon as the trees come to bearing the land will be worth from $1,000 to $3,000 an acre and the fruit yield will be from $200 to $1,500 an acre.

The company is capitalized on the basis of $1,000 per acre. Two-fifths of the stock is preferred, issued in shares of $100 each, bearing 4% interest and sharing with the common stock in all the profits of the company. The preferred stock may also be exchanged for land at any time.

A limited amount of preferred stock is offered to the public at $50 a share. The investment is based on real estate and is absolutely safe; profits based on fruit yield made certain by irrigation.

Large illustrated prospectus free upon application. Address

FLIES---More Dangerous Than Rattlesnakes, Tigers or Elephants

Every Man and Child and Woman Should Fight the Dangerous Spreader of Disease.

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

We receive an interesting and most useful pamphlet entitled "The House Fly at the Bar."

The publication presents facts compiled by health authorities all over the United States, PROVING THAT THE ORDINARY HOUSE FLY IS AMONG THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL THE ENEMIES OF MAN. The publication is the work of an investigating committee, of public spirited men, who have made a searching and scientific inquiry into the subject.

Mr. Roosevelt, in Africa, will kill probably a few lions, several snakes, possibly one or two big, useful, harmless elephants.

If Mr. Roosevelt spent the rest of his life shooting wild animals in Africa, and if he shot many of them every day, he wouldn't do as much to destroy the enemies of human beings AS CAN BE DONE BY ANY WOMAN HERE IN AMERICA DETERMINEDLY FIGHTING THE HOUSE FLY.

You know that disease attacks human beings only when they are brought IN CONTACT with it. For instance, you cannot get typhoid fever unless you SWALLOW the germ of typhoid fever. You do not swallow the germs of typhoid unless those germs get on the food that you eat, or in the glasses or cups from which you drink.

The house flies that we neglect spread typhoid and other disease germs everywhere.

The committee which prepared this report on "The House Fly at the Bar" should be duplicated in every big city in the United States. The fight to keep sewage and all filth from the waters near cities and towns is a fight upon which the public health depends, a fight that would save thousands of lives yearly if it were encouraged as it should be and not opposed by ignorance or selfishness.

Many who know about the spread of disease imagine that there is no harm in allowing sewage to flow into the rivers, harbors, lakes or bays around a city. Because they do not drink the water they think that they are safe.

But the disease-spreading refuse is washed upon the shores, and thence the germs are carried by the house fly everywhere. The fly that you see on your breakfast table and think little of is the owner of numerous spongy feet any one of which will carry and leave on your plate, or your bread, or your lump of sugar, INVISIBLE, the disease that can end your life.

The spreading of filth in public water supplies keeps the flies alive, the flies in their turn spread the disease in the home—the kitchen, the dining room and on the faces of sleeping children.

Every woman should fight the fly in her house exactly as she would fight rattlesnakes in her garden. Every sheet of flypaper that you put around is a protector of human life.

The day has gone by for fighting the big enemies that roar and bite, and scratch. Wolves and such things are curiosities. Nobody fears them. The man who goes to hunt them does it simply because he has in his blood the old savage instinct that time and education have not eradicated. Our real enemies to-day are the little things, the house flies, the mosquitoes, that inject malaria and yellow fever into the blood, and the invisible living enemies, the germs of disease, that the flies leave in their tracks.

In the old days men used to unite and go out in bands to fight wolves and bears that threatened their families. To-day WOMEN should unite in societies pledged to the extermination of the house flies. A great deal of good work has been done, and much is planned. Boston has appropriated one hundred thousand dollars to stamp out the flies. Southern and Western cities, as the committee informs us, are busy framing ordinances against the flies, and adopting sanitary regulations to lessen the flies' breeding grounds.

Those that contribute to this pamphlet on "The House Fly at the Bar" include the highest authorities in the country—among them Dr. L. O. Howard, the chief entomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Dr. Howard declares that it is "comparatively easy to do away with the flies, and failure to do so is an evidence of ignorance or carelessness in regard to disease-producing filth, which, to the informed mind, constitutes a serious blot upon civilized methods of life."

Mothers should understand that it is just as much their duty to protect their young children from flies and the children's food from flies and their contamination as it would be their duty, if they lived in India, to protect the children from poisonous reptiles. Care and cleanliness will do this work. Unfortunately, care and cleanliness mean time and expense. But mothers should care more for the health of their children than for anything else, and it is for them to carry on the battle against the flies that spread disease.

How to Tell the Animals

A Handy Guide for Hunters

By C. B. Quincy

If you are going quietly along a jungle trail and something suddenly hits you from behind and shoots you half a mile or so through the air, try to catch on the branch of a tree before alighting, as you have been charged by a rhinoceros, a savage animal, which charges like a hotel-keeper.

If you are hit in similar fashion but sent straight up into the air like a balloon, you have been butted by a buffalo. This is perhaps the surest way to tell a rhinoceros or a buffalo, but a less hurtful plan is to observe the animal carefully through a telescope.

The rhino is built like a Taft dachshund and has a retrousse nose, which he uses sometimes as a battering ram, sometimes as a hatpeg or can opener.

It is advisable not to jostle the rhino too eagerly, as he is of a proud and sensitive disposition, although his hide does look as if made out of old shoes.

The elephant can easily be told by his trunk, which looks like a rubber hose hanging out of a window. If Africa is too far away for you to enjoy the pleasure of elephant shooting you can find a handy substitute by going out and firing bullets into the barn. The elephant usually travels in twos or threes, or with a circus.

The leopard can be told by his spots, which render the Bertillon method of identification quite unnecessary. The leopard changes his spot with great agility when pursued by the hunter. If the animal had a mane and a bass voice like the lion it would be called the king of beasts.

To tell the lion all that is necessary is a single glance. He looks like a chauffeur with his coat around his neck. The lion is a very ferocious animal, savagely running away when pursued by the hunter. In fact, he will not stop running until completely exhausted, such is his savage disposition.

The hyena is regarded as a less noble animal than the lion probably because he laughs more. An animal that laughs is regarded as too frivolous to amount to much, although it is hard to see how the hyena could refrain from laughter when surrounded by such funny looking objects as baboons and hippopotami. The latter animal is called the river-horse, because he looks like a beefsteak pudding.

Most of the other animals can be told by their appearance.

NERVOUSNESS A GREAT CURSE

Growth of Disorder Causes Crimes of All Sorts.

Zoo experts say that the reason a rattlesnake rattles his rattles is that the poor creature is rattled and nervous. This appears to be a logical explanation of a puzzling matter, and we are convinced that it will apply to many other actions in the human and brute worlds.

Is it not clear that the poor dog is neurasthenic, and is clinging to some creature for support? Instead of chiding the unfortunate creature, it should be placed in an institution where its nervous debility might be successfully treated.

And why does a rhinoceros charge the hunter? It cannot [illegible]at him. Evidently the wretched creature is of a highly nervous temperament, and instead of being shot should be soothed as much as possible.
